Bull Calf and Farmer.
By God's Grace.
Imaginary Gold Bans.
Earthquakes in Mexico.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

PROFESSOR CORYLLOS asks the United States to help "end turmoil in the Balkans."

America should tell Professor Coryllos that when the Balkans want to end the turmoil, they can do it. Until then, it will not be the business of the United States to end it for them.

THE artist, Frost, drew an old farmer starting to educate a young bull calf and harnessing himself and the calf in the same yoke. As he went downhill, dragged by the calf, the farmer said: "Stop us, somebody, darn our fool souls."

The Balkans can stop running downhill to destruction, if they want to stop.

THE German and Irish fliers insert the words "thank God," or "by the grace of God," in every message describing their safe landing through fog and storm across the ocean after 36 hours of danger.

The professional atheist, unwilling to believe nothing that "has not been proved to him," would find his opinions changing, in a big earthquake, or above the ocean in a fog.

NORWAY has gone back to the gold basis, the seventeenth country on earth to do so. That basis is more or less of a financial fiction. There is not nearly enough gold on the earth to take care of its "gold basis" currency. Imagination does a good deal of it.

THIS country, it is said, produced last year less gold by tens of millions than was actually used in art and manufacturers, quite apart from any currency needs. If you could make gold artificially, and commercially, you'd get rich, unless your secret were known and gold demonetized.

SEVERE earthquakes shook Southern Mexico yesterday in Oaxaca and elsewhere. Several towns are believed destroyed and a sound like a cannon shot was heard from the hilltop of Texepec, before the shaking of the earth began.

TREMORS were felt as far as Mexico City and doubtless many will connect this earthquake and others recently, with the religious trouble in Mexico.

Nothing could be more gratifying to the deeply religious mind than a powerful earthquake, terrifying the enemies of religion. Unfortunately modern earthquakes do not discriminate, and shake down buildings on the just and the unjust.

GOV. AL SMITH has decided not to attend the national Democratic convention at Houston, because it would be better taste not to go. His friends believe that it isn't necessary, inasmuch as he is practically nominated at this moment.

COUNTESS STANISLAUS DE LA ROCHEFOUCAULD, bet on zero and 17 at Monte Carlo's roulette table and won $75,000 francs.

Early next morning she invested the money in a villa, wise lady, and says she is through with gambling.

Thousands of poor geese will try to imitate her, and the cold faced croupiers that serve the bank will take in many times 375,000 francs.

Human beings despise the poor fish that swallows the hook with a tempting worm on it, and swallows the same kind of a hook.

SENATORS denounce the high price of books.

Mr. McKellar, from Tennessee, says "novels worth 'two bits' can not be bought for less than $2 . . ."

The price of novels is not so important. But the high cost of books containing positive knowledge, that would enable uneducated millions (including many college graduates) to educate themselves, is disastrous.

THAT a book should be sold for four or five times what it costs to produce it, is as bad for the publisher and for the author, as for the reading public.

When will American business, big generally, learn that sales with small profits, as shown in the automobile industry, are most profitable?

ROBERT H. HANCOCK

PGH. ARMY FLIERS CRACK UP IN FIELD

Capt. Thomas S. Voss, commandant of Rodgers Field, and Robert H. Hancock, serving as his mechanic, had a miraculous escape from death yesterday afternoon when the engine of an Army plane which they were flying went dead while flying over Economy township and they came down in a forced landing in which the plane was demolished.

Hancock suffered bruises and lacerations in the crash, but Capt. Voss escaped uninjured. Only by dexterous piloting was Capt. Voss able to avoid striking a high-tension line as he landed the plane with a "dead stick." The landing was made on the Barto farm, about five miles northeast of Ambridge.

At the time of the accident Capt. Voss was leading a formation of five local Army planes en route to Detroit. Two of the planes continued on their journey and the others returned to Rodgers Field.

The plane was so badly wrecked that after some of its equipment was salvaged the rest was burned.

QUEBEC, Que., April 18.—How and when Capt. Hermann Koehl and Baron Ehrenfried von Huenefeld will leave Greenley Island, upon which they have been isolated since their epochal 36-hour flight westward across the Atlantic, were the main topics of discussion here today.

The German fliers have avowed their intention of flying to New York in the Bremen. But their plan may not prove feasible and may delay their arrival for some time.

Dies in Leap Off Bridge

A woman believed to be Nellie Gerkins, 23, of South Thirteenth street, leaped from the South Tenth Street Bridge into the Monongahela River and was drowned late today.

Fred B Klinge, 1429 Warner street, and Andrew Mashovics, 3224 Harkins way, carried the woman's coat to the morgue with a report of the suicide. The woman climbed the railing, about 100 feet from them, and leaped before they could reach her.

The coat bore no marks of identification, but a caller at the morgue said the woman was Miss Gerkin.

Vote Jury Weighs Case

A second victory for the prosecution of election frauds, the entry of a plea of guilty disposing of the case against the election board of the Ninth district of the Third ward, was followed in Criminal Court today by the submission to the jury of the case against the Fourteenth district of the Twenty-first ward. This case, which started Monday, disposes of the third of 40 boards, comprising nearly 200 defendants, slated for continuous trial.

At noon, James H. Bates, Negro, 35, of Webster avenue, judge of election at the September primary for the Ninth District of the Third Ward, entered a plea of guilty on the count of negligently performing the duties of an election officer so as to defeat the objects of the election laws. EX-HEAD OF PITT IS DEAD

Dr. Samuel B. McCormick, 70, chancellor emeritus of the University of Pittsburgh, which he had been instrumental in developing from a comparatively small institution to one of the largest in the country, died at 10:15 a. m. today at his home on Coraopolis Heights.

Dr. McCormick, who had been ill with a cold since last Thursday, was stricken with pneumonia Sunday. He battled on even terms with the disease for a day, but from then on his condition steadily became worse.

Less than two weeks ago the veteran educator had driven home from Florida where he had spent his winters since relinquishing his duties as head of the university seven years ago.

At his bedside were his wife, Mrs. Ida McCormick, and his two daughters, Mrs. Lloyd Smith and Miss Rachael McCormick. He also leaves two sons, James R. McCormick and Samuel B McCormick, Jr., the latter of Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. McCormick's death brings to an end a diversified career. Minister, lawyer and educator, he was successful in each and outstanding in one.

PIRATES WARM UP AFTER FROST

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Donie Bush sent his Pirates through a brisk workout this afternoon, the warming-up session starting at 2 o'clock. The drill on the cards for 11 o'clock had to be postponed on account of the frosty condition of Forbes Field.

The wintry elements were being chased by the sun and Jack Fogarty when the players reported this morning, but the soil was too wet to permit of play. Bush, accordingly, ordered all hands to report back at 2 o'clock when the field was in much better shape.

A snappy batting drill was one of the high spots of the practice. Every man on the squad, including the injured Earl Smith, took part in the session preliminary to the grand opening of tomorrow. The 1927 pennant will be unfurled as one of the big features of the inaugural, the St. Louis Cardinals, under the direction of Bill McKechnie, to furnish the opposition.

468 FACE DRY LAW ULTIMATUM

Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington proposes to go after Pittsburgh property holders to enforce the dry law.

Notices will be served on 468 owners of property upon which saloons are located, telling them nuisances exist there and calling upon them to abate them.

This was revealed today in a letter from Pennington to the East End Ministerial Association. The letter, made public by the association, contains a report of liquor conditions in the city. It was in response to a request from a committee of ministers arranging the East End mass meeting for law enforcement in the Sixth United Presbyterian Church Sunday, April 29.

No recognition has been given the call for the ministers' mass meeting by the city administration.

"We are paying no attention whatever to this agitation," said Director of Public Safety James M.

TWICE IN COURT

Five minutes after her case against Charles Dowden, 22 (right), her husband, 112 West Stockton avenue, was thrown out of Morals Court, Mrs. Barbara Dowden, 26 (left), 982 Banksville road, was fined $10 in the same court for disorderly conduct. Police brought her back when she gave vent to her displeasure by attacking on the sidewalk outside the husband who "abused" her. Attorney Charles M. Christler (center), for the husband in the first case, was a witness for the husband, married eight months, in the second.

PAYROLLERS JAM MEETING

City and county employes composed approximately one-half of an audience estimated at 1,200 at the meeting of the Republican organizations of the six East End wards last night in Duquesne Garden.

Speakers at the meeting vigorously denied reports that the payroll is being coerced and insisted upon the right of the organization to present candidates and hold meetings.

Prior to the gathering both Mayor Charles H. Kline and Superintedent of Police Peter P. Walsh insisted they knew of no orders being issued to police or other employes to attend the rally or to support organization candidates.

While the two officials were denying the reports, Council unanimously killed the demand of George P. Kountz, candidate for delegate, that the body urge the Mayor to issue a proclamation informing jobholders they can vote for whom they please without fear or favor. The Kountz request was tabled on motion of President of Council James F. Malone.

In spite of the denials that orders were issued to be on hand,

KING AIDE GIVES SELF UP

Sol Rosenberg, camera-shy as you can see for yourself above, is back in Pittsburgh to answer charges of conspiracy and receiving stolen goods growing out of his services to William L. King, former Citizen's League head, with whom he is implicated on charges of framing evidence in vice investigations. Rosenberg returned to Pittsburgh of his own accord with his attorney, W. W. Racey, a United States commissioner from Syracuse, after County Detective James McGinley failed to bring him from New York because of extradition delay. Rosenberg has posted bond of $2,000.

Children To Hear Concert

The Pittsburgh Symphony Society will give a concert free to the children of Pittsburgh on Saturday morning, April 21, at 11 o'clock at Carnegie Music Hall, Oakland.

Eugene Goosens, conductor of the Rochester Philharmonic, will be guest conductor, and the orchestra will play the Symphonic Suite, "Scheherezade," as part of its program, with Mr. Goosens making explanatory remarks.

This is the first time in the musical history of Pittsburgh that a free children's concert has been given by a symphony orchestra. The Symphony Society has the hearty co-operation of Will Earhart, superintendent of music in the public schools, in this great undertaking. Letters are going out from his office to all the elementary schools, directing the principals to call the offices of the Symphony Society, at Court 1421, as to the number of tickets desired by each school. Tickets will be distributed from Mr. Earhart's office, 721 Fulton Building, beginning at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Children under 12 must be accompanied by an adult, who must also secure a ticket.

RUMORS ARE DENIED

the ice-bound island was still very much a mystery today.

Because of adverse flying conditions and the island's inaccessibility by land and water, it is believed it will take several days to bring the necessary replacement parts to the fliers. To make the repairs will also take some time.

DISSENSION DENIED

Confidential reports reaching here revealed the true purpose of Maj. Fitzmaurice's departure from the island in "Duke" Schiller's rescue plane and laid at rest rumors of dissension between the Irish flier and his two German companions.

Fitzmaurice is now at Clarke City, Que., after making a 200-mile flight from Natashquan, where he and Schiller spent the night.

From Clarke City came reports that Fitzmaurice came out of his isolation merely to get repair parts for the Bremen and arrange their transportation to Greenley Island. These reports stated that he intends to fly back to the island when he has accompplished this task and rejoin his companions for the flight to New York in the Bremen.

Fitzmaurice is expected to fly to Murray Bay some time today. It is believed he will be met there by Miss Herta Junkers and will confer with her upon the arrangements to be made for the shipment of the replacement parts.

MAY FLY F-13

There is some talk current that the German fliers will be taken to Murray Bay by a second relief plane reported to be headed towards Greenley Island. At Murray Bay, according to this rumor, the fliers will go to New York in the Junkers F-13, sister ship of the Bremen, now at Montreal. The F-13 was brought to Montreal by Herta Junkers and Fred Melchior.

The German fliers have only two alternatives from which to choose if they expect to leave the island before the spring thaws. They must either go by air in the Bremen or in a relief plane, or they will have to resort to dog teams.

The ice-breaker Montcalm, after making prodigious efforts to reach Greenley Island, has been beaten by the ice-packed Strait of Belle Isle and has been ordered back to its routine patrol duties in Cabot Strait.

$2,200,000 BEQUESTS IN BIG ESTATE

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP.)—A bequest of $1,000,000 is left to Yale University under the terms of the will of Chauncey M. Depew, railroad executive, statesman, humorist and orator, filed today. He died April 5.

Mr. Depew, an alumnus of Yale and a former member of the Yale Corporation, made the bequest without restriction as to its use. It was the largest bequest of a total exceeding $2,200,000.

The value of the estate, considerably greater than this, is not yet known.

The bulk of the estate is divided among relatives, although servants and the village of Peekskill, N. Y., where Mr. Depew was born, are beneficiaries. a Peekskill receive $100,000 in trust for educational and other public uses.

between 500 and 600 employes were present when last night's meeting was called to order by Roy D. Schooley, Eighth ward chairman, who made what might be termed the keynote speech.

"Every time the Republican organization attempts to hold a meeting our opponents raise the cry that we are trying to coerce the payroll," he said. "That's the last resort of those who can do nothing else to aid their campaigns. Let's clear away some of the dust that is being thrown. Let's agree at the start that our opponents are upstanding gentlemen and good citizens. Let's agree they have every right to be candidates and hold meetings. But I submit the Regular Republican organization has the same right to present candidates and assemble to let its members see and hear them. If they appeal to you we ask you to support them. If they do not appeal to you, you have the right of any American citizen to support any candidate you please."

Referring to charges of payroll coercion by supporters of James M. Magee, congressional candidate, Schooley said the former had asked every organization worker in his district, the Mayor and County Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong to support him and, when refused, denied their right to participate in the contest. On two occasions, he said, when the Mayor's office was in different hands, the organization had supported Magee, who then did not complain. He referred to the period during which William A. Magee was mayor.

KLINE CHEERED

The principal speakers last night were Mayor Kline and Commissioner Armstrong, who shared honors in ovations from the audience; Congressman Harry A. Estep, organization candidate for re-election against Magee, and Representatives Edward B. Goehring and John S. Purucker, seeking re-election with organization support in the Fourth and Fifth districts. Brief talks were made by these ward chairmen: Alderman C. A. Burke, Seventh; Magistrate William J. Soost, Eleventh; Alderman William A. Means, Twelfth; Superintendent of Highways and Sewers Charles A. Hillegas, Thirteenth, and Edward Friebertshauser, Fourteenth. Director of Public Safety James M. Clark was on the platform.

As each municipal employe or member of a Republican ward committee appeared at the door of the meeting they were asked to turn in cards sent to them with their invitations to the gathering. These cards, filled in, gave the name, address and place of employment. The estimate of the number of employes on hand was obtained by watching the number of cards turned in and inspection of the audience.

CARRIERS FORCE PAY CUT, SENATE TOLD

By MAX HENRICI.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—A proposal that the Interstate Commerce Commission fix the prices at which railroads buy coal was offered today in the Senate's investigation of the miners' strike, as a remedy for the ills of the bituminous industry.

The suggestion came in a letter from an operator, whose name was withheld, to Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, who read it into the record. The operator asserted that the railroads, which consume 25 per cent of the country's output of coal, had depressed the price below the cost of production, yet are making so much money that, under the law, they will have to return part of their earnings to the United States government. He declared the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad had so manipulated the coal market that it was getting fuel at $1.20 a ton. He suggested that the carriers' purchasing agents be quizzed by the committee.

Landon C. Bell, of Columbus, O., a director of the Redjacket Consolidated Coal and Coke Company, which operates in Mingo county, West Virginia, was on the witness stand most of the day. He read a contract which his company requires its miners to sign before they are employed. The miners promise not to join the United Mine Workers or any other labor organization. Bell justified the contract on the ground that the United Mine Workers had engaged in a conspiracy with Pittsburgh and other northern operators to destroy the business of the southern West Virginia coal companies.

READS TAFT OPINION

Thomas C. Townsend, of Charleston, W. Va., attorney for the United Mine Workers, read a document in which labor unions were spoken of with approval. Bell was asked what he thought of it, and answered that he would not like it to be circulated among his company's employes. Townsend then revealed that it was part of an opinion handed down by the United States Supreme Court and had been written by Chief Justice William Howard Taft.

A. M. Belcher, of Charleston, W. Va., attorney for the Southern West Virginia coal operators, remarked that the opinion related to a legitimate labor union, and that the United Mine Workers was a lawless organization, which had been found guilty of conspiracy.

"When did it become unlawful? When you left it?" inquired Senator Wheeler, in allusion to the fact that Belcher was at one time the union's attorney.

Belcher answered that he had served the United Mine Workers as a lawyer, just as he might represent a murderer or any other client.

Wheeler asked if he had been serving the union merely as a lawyer when he made a speech at a convention of the organization in Indianapolis some years ago in which he denounced the action of certain courts in proceedings against the miners.

Belcher made an evasive reply.

Wheeler said he thought Belcher's Indianapolis speech did him credit, but that his characterization of the United Mine Workers as an unlawful organization was not to his credit.

"ONLY WANTED $5 HAT"

Stella Ogin, 21, 4506 Adeline street, went to the rescue of her friend, Betty Phillips, 4502 Liberty avenue, in Morals Court in the disappearance of $60 owned by Julius F. Sharpe, 3634 Coleman street. Betty, charged with taking the money, blamed "Stella." Stella cleared up the mystery thusly:

"Judge, he put that money in my hands in the dark. I was surprised when I looked at the roll in the light and found $60. I only wanted $5 for a new hat and I've given him back the rest."

Sharpe confirmed this and Betty and Stella were discharged.

JURY WEIGHS CASE

and, who received the plea, announced that sentence would be imposed Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

The plea disposes of the case against the board, which was scheduled for trial this afternoon. Charges against the four remaining defendants, J. C. Scephy and George Moore, inspectors, and Robert T. Holes and Van R. Withers, clerks, will be dropped.

BLAMES JUDGES

"We feel from our investigation that the judge of election was responsible for the actions of the board," First Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Park stated to the court. "The miscount that resulted from his negligence or omissions is solely his work and the remainder of the board are not culpable. We also feel that a light jail sentence would meet the ends of justice in this case."

Attorney William H. McNaugher, representing the special committee of the Allegheny County Bar Association, assisting in the prosecutions, stated that his committee was in accord with the action of Park. Defense Attorney Rody P. Marshall asked the court for a little delay in disposing of the plea to allow Bates to arrange about a mortgage on his home before going to jail.

It was developed that Bates called off the ballots in such a negligent manner as to give votes cast for certain judicial candidates to other candidates.

The case against the four members of the board of the Fourteenth district of the Twenty-first ward was given to the jury about 2 o'clock after the charge of Judge J. Frank Graff.

ASKS CONVICTION

Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk concluded the arguments with a plea for a conviction of the board as a warning to other election boards and against tampering by outsiders, politicians who should be sternly warned, "hands off."

Marshall, in his closing argument, emphasized that Joseph H. Klein, judge of election who turned state witness, should be regarded as the guilty member and that against his testimony was the testimony of the defendants and numerous others. The defendants are: Clarence A. Bowers and James Williamson, inspectors, and Mrs. Anna Alston and Clara A. Manes, clerks.

The prosecution was prepared to take up the case against the board in the Twentieth District, Fifth Ward, this afternoon when Defense Counsel Marshall was granted a postponement until tomorrow on his excuse that he was to be a witness in Common Pleas Court today.

464 FACE ULTIMATUM

Clark today. On Sunday evening, April 29, Director Clark expects to attend services in his own congregation, the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church, and listen to an address by William E. ("Pussyfoot") Johnson, who appears in the East End as a counter attraction on the night of the ministerial mass meeting.

The unprecedented number of padlocks asked by Pennington's office, the ministers told the prohibition administrator, prompted their request for a report on conditions here.

303 RAIDS

In his letter to the committee, Pennington points out that his office has made 303 raids. A total of 118 padlock cases have been filed, he says, leaving 468 other known saloons for which the notices will be sent out.

Pennington also points out that "a concurrent duty rests upon state and municipal officers to enforce the state prohibition law and control local retailers."

In this connection, he says:

"In the exercise of this concurrent duty, the number of cases presented by Pittsburgh magistrates to the county district attorney are shown in the descending scale of 1,225 for 1924 to 156 during 1927. During the past three months, 83 cases have been presented to the district attorney, and of this number only 30 were presented by police magistrates."

LEFT-HAND TURN -:- Speeds Traffic -:- TO SOUTH HILLS

Relief of traffic congestion on the Smithfield Street Bridge since the opening of the new Liberty span has enabled the restoration of the left-hand turn at Smithfield and Water streets, disallowed for several years. Vehicles going west on Water street now turn left across the bridge and mingle with traffic going east in Water street. The new rule has caused no confusion and has resulted in taking much "long-turn" traffic from lower Wood street. The straightaway northbound traffic in Smithfield street and the right-hand turn vehicles eastward in Water street move as usual.

Wondering Wandering DOGS Unleashed Unlicensed TO BE SEIZED If Allowed To Be Free BY POLICE Citywide Clean-Up

PICKED UP

This li'l pooch was picked up by the "Dog-Collecting Squad," in Dogdom, the "Terrible Four," in the cleanup ordered by Safety Director James M. Clark.

ALL FREE DOGS

All free dogs, the director's edict says, are to be taken, even though they are licensed. All dogs, it requires, must be on leashes, licensed or unlicensed. The city treasurer estimates that there are 10,500 licensed dogs and 14,000 unlicensed.

MELANCHOLY

This un's a bit melancholy, perhaps 'cause he's got no license and was an early victim of the Animal Rescue League, where all of the dogs gathered in the net are taken. The potrolmen with this feller are S. A. Lake and W. W. Banker (right.) The penalty, the city points out, for allowing dogs to roam, is a fine not to exceed $100 or imprisonment not to exceed three months.

RESIGNED

Now this old topper. He's a bit resigned to his fate, even though his wonderment is as keen as that of every doggie in the rescue league quarters, and they're all terribly scared, they say, when they get into that nasty place and away from home. "A leash is better'n than this!"

"CHEESE IT! HERE'S THE WAGON!"

And all the little doggies scattered to escape the nets. It's a serious thing, this "covered wagon," so far as the average dog is concerned. Patrolmen Lake (left) and Banker are shown with it here. This action by the city follows the attacks on a number of persons within the city limits in the past several weeks. Neither police nor Rescue League men will be partial, officials say.

It is a tedious job to haul supplies to the lonely light, where the Germans, Von Huenefeld and Koehl, may desert the Bremen because of that hardship and fly to New York. Three hardy islanders risked death in 20 miles of open sea (left, above), in a small boat to see the Bremen.

COERCION OF CITY PAYROLL DENIED

As far as he knows, no orders have been issued to city employes to attend meetings or support organization candidates, Mayor Charles H. Kline insisted when asked yesterday about such reports.

"Did you issue any orders to the payroll to attend the meeting at Duquesne Garden or any meeting?" he was asked.

"Not a one. I haven't ordered the city employes to attend any meetings," he replied, "I haven't asked them to support any candidate. As far as I remember I haven't asked any of them to vote for me. When I appear as a candidate for delegate at any meeting, I appear just as any other candidate to ask those present to support me."

"How about your department and bureau heads? Have they issued any orders?"

"I don't know of orders being issued to any employes."

"There was a report that Supt. Walsh ordered members of the police force to attend the Duquesne Garden meeting."

"That certainly is news to me," said his honor, who hazarded the suggestion that the Superintendent might have ordered a small detachment of his force to handle the crowds and the traffic.

"That is done before every big meeting," he said. "Of course, meetings for workers in the organization, which includes many men and women on the payroll, are held before every election. But I haven't issued orders for them to attend and I don't know of any orders being issued."

Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh was just as emphatic in his denial of the report orders have been issued.

"I never heard of such a thing until I read it in the nawspapers. There's nothing to that story," he said.

He went on to say that he had asked Inspector Albert Beebe to send a detail to the Duquesne Garden meeting, adding that officers were sent to all big gatherings to handle the crowds and traffic.

"You didn't happen to write any letters, Superintendent?"

"What do you mean?"

"Don't you remember the letter read when you were a witness at Washington?"

Superintendent Walsh admittted he remembered the letter to Inspector C. S. Edeburn about which he had been asked when a witness at the investigation before the committee headed by Senator Reed of Missouri. This letter read:

"With reference to the attached list of employees under your command, you will instruct them that we expect a large majority in their respective districts for the Pepper-Fisher ticket tomorrow. You will also instruct them to bring you a list of the returns in their district on Wednesday, May 19, showing the number of votes cast for all the candidates."

At the hearing, Superintendent Walsh insisted this letter was nothing more than instructions to his force to get the returns from their districts and report them as quickly as possible so they could be tabulated.

"Someone sent them that letter," he commented.

"Did you ever find out who it was?"

"No, I didn't," he said, terminating the interview.

ALBERT G. BROWN

Albert G. Brown, Duquesne attorney, is a candidate for Legislature from the Eleventh district, pledging himself to work for good government rather than personal interests, use of voting machines, protection of third-class cities and smaller municipalities against unjust encroachment of larger cities and law enforcement.

NEW YORK WAITS

Mayor Jimmy Walker here stretches to look into the sky. All New York did while waiting for the plane to finish its trans-Atlantic flight and now plans a welcome that may equal even that tendered to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

APPEALS TO POLICE IN SEARCH FOR WIFE

Mrs. Bessie Francis, 27, of 3949 Oakdale street, has disappeared, her husband, Joseph Francis, reported to the Missing Persons Bureau yesterday. Francis said that his wife left her sister-in-law's home in Fairchance on April 9 to board a train in Uniontown for Pittsburgh—and never reached her home. Mrs. Francis was described as five feet, four inches high, 120 pounds in weight, with brown eyes and brown hair.

ACTOR DIES IN HOTEL PLUNGE

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—(AP.)—A plunge from a fifth floor window of a hotel to a skylight on a roof below caused the death of Wayne Bradford, an acrobatic dancer, here last night.

Blood stains in his room and the confusion in which furniture and clothing were strewn about led police to believe that Bradford might have been thrown from the window.

Bradford, press clippings in his room, showed, had appeared on the New York stage and throughout the country. Hotel employes said the dancer injured his foot in preparing a new dance act and that he had been staying in his room a great deal. Several liquor bottles were found in the room.

Police began a search for a man who disappeared after telling the elevator man that the actor had fallen from his window.

Lloyd George's Lunch Nicks Ford

LONDON, April 18.—(AP.)—The luncheon which Lloyd-George gave Henry Ford yesterday more than paid for itself.

The former premier complained that the Ford Tractor on his farm at Churt, Surrey, did not plough deep enough.

"I will send you one that does, as soon as I get home," Mr. Ford said.

"Thanks, that will help a lot," said farmer Lloyd-George. "I'll pay the freight."

"No you won't," said Mr. Ford. "The freight and all are on me."

WOMEN ATTACK MINERS

MASONTOWN, Pa., April 18. — Twenty-five stalwart wives of striking Greene county miners drew pokers and clubs from under their clothing and attacked 200 nonunion miners, awaiting busses to take them to work, on the main street here this morning.

The women flayed right and left with their weapons, rapping the miners on the heads and bodies and sending dinner pails rattling to the street. The men retaliated by pushing the women away, but made no use of weapons. After a 10-minute battle which left a bloody trail along the thoroughfare, the women departed.

The women are believed to have crossed the bridge spanning the Monongahela River here which separates Fayette and Greene counties. The men attacked are employed at half a dozen nonunion coal mining operations in Fayette county.

TROLLEY, BUS CRASH; 1 HURT

One man was cut on his right hand when a crowded Homestead McKeesport and Duquesne street car crashed into a Yellow bus en route to Dayton, O., at Sixth avenue and Forbes street at 8 o'clock this morning. Windows in both vehicles were shattered.

OHIO GANG PUTS SHOES ON COW TO HIDE THEFT

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., April 18.—Six youths arrested for sheep thefts, revealed to police how a rival gang concealed the theft of a cow by placing shoes on its feet.

FLY TOGETHER

They're temporarily separated now, but they plan by all means to cling together and enter New York as the "crew of the Bremen." Left to right are Capt. Herman Koehl, pilot; Baron von Huenefeld, owner and backer, a passenger; and Col. Fitzmaurice.

DUKE SCHILLER

Duke Schiller, in company with Dr. Cuisiner, flew to Greenley in a Canadian transcontinental seaplane and is carrying Col. Fitzmaurice to Murray Bay, where they are to confer with Miss Junkers and arrange for repairs.

WATCHMAN INJURED BY BUS ASKS $25,000

Mattio Toplack has the job of seeing that pedestrians do not get run over at a Pennsylvania Railroad crossing in Leetsdale, but that did not prevent him being knocked down and badly injured by a bus. He filed suit in Common Pleas Court against the Beaver Valley Motor Coach Company, asking $25,000 damages.

PGH. LOSES LAKE COAL MARKET

Recognizing that the lake cargo coal market is lost for all time for Pittsburgh rail shippers, Chairman William H. Stevenson, of the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal Board, today called a conference of the coal and steel heavy tonnage producers of the Pittsburgh district for a discussion of measures of possible relief.

The meeting will be held early next week in the offices of the canal board and will bring together coal operators, iron and steel manufacturers and handlers of other heavy tonnage commodities.

The restoration of the 25-cent differential to southern coal shippers becomes effective Friday as a result of the action of the United States Supreme Court in denying an appeal of Ohio and Pennsylvania coal operators.

"The all-water coal rate from the Kentucky fields to the lakes will be scarely more than half the rail rates," said Chairman Stevenson, "and with that competition, Western Pennsylvania cannot hope to have any market for its coal beyond the comparatively small home consumption.

"In Pittsburgh we are standing with our backs to the wall and it is folly to conceal the fact any longer. The same waterway that will carry Kentucky coal to the lakes will take steel products from the mills at Lorain, Detroit and Gary to St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans, snatching away our steel market just as effectually as it has taken our coal markets in the Northwest. We can meet this competition with a waterway of our own. For 20 years or more we have discussed the building of a canal to the lakes to foster our industries, but now we are obliged to build it in self-defense."

36 HRS. ON FLIGHT

COURAGE SAVED FOG-LOST FLIERS

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 18—Indomitable courage, which included a preference for death by revolver bullets rather than by exposure, spells the reason that a laughing Celt and two calm Germans were able to fly westwardly across the Atlantic in an air feat that no man before had been able to accomplish.

Thirty-six hours the Bremen, the Junkers trans-Atlantic plane, rode through the Atlantic skies. Part of the time the flight was a lark through cool morning winds. The greater part, however, was a fight through fog, sleet and vicious winds.

In those latter hours, the airplane staggered through storm-darkened areas as a great blind bird. Its three gallant masters—Maj. James Fitzmaurice, Capt. Hermann Koehl and Baron Gunther Von Huenefeld—peered unseeingly through the fog and winds which had turned to failure all other trans Atlantic flight attempts, seven persons even giving their lives in unsuccessful attempts.

SIGHT LIGHTHOUSE

Then a haven—a tiny lighthouse that appeared at first to be a sealing vessel. A level stretch. There was a decision to land. The plane, its fuel exhausted, settled down, cracked through the ice, and the flight was ended.

But even knowing success was theirs—they were safe somewhere in North America—the fliers felt they faced a death that was even worse than a crash and quick plunge into the Atlantic. That was death from exposure and cold.

But they were saved and the story of the heroic flight now is available.

By many means it has been pieced together. Miss Greta Ferris, 32-year-old nurse at the Blanc Sablon Station of the Grenfell Mission, visited the men and dispatched the story to the St. John's Telegraph Journal and Times Globe.

It took 36 hours for the Bremen to cross the Atlantic, the same time the three men had figured it would take them to reach Mitchel Field, L. I., from Dublin. The first 24 hours was good flying.

Of course the Bremen had to dip low over the water just as did Col. Charles A. Lindbergh when he flew to Paris a year ago, but that was to be expected. Then came nature's answer to this challenge of man.

Winds become a gale whipping directly at the plane's propeller. The machine fought on. Fog encompassed it. Snow and sleet beat down on the wings. Darkness was about them.

LIGHTS FAIL

They turned the switch for the lights on their instrument board. Something had gone wrong, for the lights would not work. So through the darkness and in a darkened cabin they steered on, believing they approached the North American continent—but there was no way of telling where they were.

Finally a dim light appeared on the instrument board. The three bent to see the dials.

Relief at the glow of the light turned to anxiety. They were 400 miles off their course in the direction of the North Pole. The fuel supply was rapidly diminishing. There was no view of land.

When gray dawn lighted the skies Friday it was found the plane again was off its course, floundering in fog, going northeastward, and away from safety. The course was changed to due west for the three felt certain that Newfoundland must be close by.

A small lake appeared. It's smoothness indicated the possibility of a landing place. With the gasoline almost gone, the airplane nosed down to an easy landing, then cracked through the ice, breaking the udercarriage.

READY TO SHOOT

Stiff with cold, shaking with nervousness, and drooping from exhaustion, the three aviators stepped out of the cabin—to they knew not what.

As Miss Greta Ferris so tersely described it:

"Baron cold and exhausted; was ready to shoot companions if worst came to the worst."

Then the lighthouse was sighted and the baron proceeded there directly. He was given dry footing but refused to eat until his two companions also were brought from that howling wind and biting cold of Greenley Island.

Biscuits and fresh milk provided that first meal. In the air they had been nourished on oranges, bananas, strong tea and sandwiches.

THE BERWICK—A snappy men's oxford, smart and comfortable

Chosen by young men who know style

GROUND GRIPPER shoes for men purposely and carefully avoid extremes of fads and novelty. Yet thousands of young men who know the value of conservative correctness have chosen them. They have the unmistakable air of the aristocrat. Rich leathers, approved patterns and careful workmanship make the Ground Gripper a shoe of real distinction.

And, too, Ground Grippers are unequalled in their fit and comfort. Shaped for the foot, scientifically designed and proportioned, they lessen nerve strain and fatigue and prevent and correct foot ills and troubles.

Three Ground Gripper Features

Ground Grippers alone combine the Straight Inside Line, the Patented Rotor Heel and the Flexible Arch—three essential features in the correctly built shoe.

START DRIVE TO RID STREETS OF DOGS

Unleashed dogs must be eliminated. This was the edict of Public Safety Director James M. Clark today. Yesterday a special squad composed of four men was organized to capture every dog, licensed or unlicensed, at large in the city.

The "Dog Collecting Squad" will travel throughout every section of the city in trucks and captured dogs will be turned over to the Animal Rescue League.

Having in mind the fact that 465 persons were bitten last year, police authorities have started the campaign early. Records at the City Welfare Department office, show that 80 per cent of the victims were children. Five cases of rabies developed. It cost the city $6,150 to treat 184 bitten persons at hospitals.

24,500 DOGS IN CITY

A census taken recently show that 24,500 licensed and unlicensed dogs are in the city. Two-thirds of this number, it is said, run loose. A fine not to exceed $100 or three months imprisonment can be imposed.

"Children must be protected and if it becomes necessary to exterminate every dog not on a leash to guarantee this protection, it will be done," Clark said.

Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Welfare Department commended the crusade. "It is both timely and necessary," she said. "I love all animals, especially dogs, but human beings comes first."

SAFETY ENGINEERS HOLD CONFERENCE TOMORROW

Saved from trip to hospital

Doctor told this man how to avoid a common cause of rupture

LIKE so many, this man had a slight tendency to hernia. The doctor who examined him said there was no real rupture, only a weakness.

"Go easy," he warned, "and above all don't strain yourself in any way. One of the most common causes of rupture is excessive straining to relieve a congested system. Yet so few people ever suspect it. For one thing, take Nujol regularly. It will probably save you a trip to the hospital. I advise all my patients who've had abdominal operations to take it, too, to avoid the danger of another break."

Nujol, taken regularly, avoids this risk. It provides an easy, natural method of regulating body functions. Keeps everything normal without effort. It not only prevents the excess of body poisons (we all have them) from forming, but aids in their removal.

A surprising number of people—men especially—are susceptible to hernia. Take a tip from this man's experience and play safe. Take Nujol regularly. Nujol was perfected by the Nujol Laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey). Try it for 3 months and you'll never want to be without it again.

In good shape again

It certainly can do no harm to try it. Nujol contains absolutely no drugs or medicine. And it may save you real trouble. Be sure you get the genuine.

CITY DUMPING METHOD ATTACKED IN COUNCIL

CAUSE DAMAGE, IS CHARGE, THEN PAY

Protesting that the city Department of Public Works is permitted to dump street sweepings over hillsides without regard to damage to property owners, while Council goes on settling claims for the damages, Councilman Robert J. Alderdice yesterday called for measures to curb the dumping practice.

Carrying out a recommendation of the assistant city solicitor, the Finance Committee of Council voted $1,000 damages for Mrs. Bessie L. Schwartz, of 2600 rear, South Eighteenth street extension. It was declared Mrs. Schwartz's property had been buried under an avalanche of street sweepings dumped over the hillside.

"This has been going on for 10 years despite the complaints of property owners," said Alderdice, "and while we vote damages to the claimants it is about time to stop this costly nuisance."

SHOOTS DOG FOR OWNER, ARRESTED FOR CRUELTY

Just as Patrolman William Roberts, a Negro, finished firing three shots into the body of a dog at the request of its owner, a Dasher street resident, an automobile containing three men drew up. The occupants of the machine were two North Boroughs constables and Humane Society Agent William Linderman Patrolman Roberts learned yesterday when he was ordered to appear before Justice Arthur Davis, of Emsworth, for a hearing on a charge of cruelty to animals. The officers charge that Roberts had only wounded the dog and that Linderman found it necessary to fire another shot into its head to kill it after the officer had left.

PRIDE

IN many instances happy home life is the result of Mother's efforts. Her patience is reflected in the neatly arranged rooms of the apartment home.

Mother makes the preparation for entertaining guests and looking after the numerous details of the household. Naturally it is with pride that the final decision is left to her when the family decides to rent a new apartment home.

But finding a suitable apartment never seems to bother her. Experience has taught her that the most simple, effective and economical method of renting choice apartments is to consult the "Apartments for Rent" columns in Sun-Telegraph Classified Ads. Here daily many of Pittsburgh's choicest apartment vacancies are advertised.

This bill, Miss Grimes said, would have required more extensive education and training and more thorough examination of chiropractors to eliminate incompetent practioners. "Certain members of the medical profession are opposing her, she charged, because she refuses to bind herself to oppose any bill recommended by the commission to study the healing arts, consisting of an allopath, homeopath, chiropractor and natureopath, and four others, appointed by Gov. Fisher after last session.

DORIS ASKED PAY FOR CHILD

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP.)—Details of the Detroit divorce complaint of Sebastian S. Kresge, which has been hidden for months under court seal, were published today. The complaint alleges that his wife, Doris Mercer Kresge, former Pittsburgh girl, demanded $10,000,000 if a child were born, and he declined to pay it.

This material came into the open when Supreme Court Justice Mahoney signed an order at Mr. Kresge's behest discontinuing an order for the latter's examination in connection with his divorce suit. Mrs. Kresge won an interlocutory decree in New York February 18.

"At that time (April, 1925,)" the complaint says, "she took a Bible in her hand, shook it in the plaintiff's (Mr. Kresge's) face and said: 'I swear to God if you don't do what I want there will be the biggest expose—the biggest scandal you ever heard of—and you must get out by the first of May or I will have the lock changed as I did for Mr. Harden.'"

Mr. Harden, it was explained, was Mrs. Kresge's first husband.

The wealthy chain store operator, who gave Mrs. Kresge securities worth $3,000,000 before he married her in April, 1924, said it had become plain to him that she had not married him for love, but rather to obtain from him all the money she could. In March, 1926, the complaint shows, he gave his wife $100,000, for which sum he alleges she agreed to drop suit against him for some monies she claimed.

JOHN VANZANT REED

Friends and relatives of John Vanzant Reed, Civil War veteran, will gather at Reynoldsville, Pa., Saturday to pay their respects on his eighty-fifth birthday. He served three years in the Grand Army of the Republic and was wounded at the battle of Fredericksburg.

WOUNDED MAN UNDER GUARD

Charles Brown, 19, of 706 East Baltimore street, Baltimore, Md., is under police guard in the Homeopathic Hospital where he was admitted early today suffering bullet wounds in the left hand and right knee. He told police he was wounded while riding in an automobile in the Lincoln highway although he was unable to name the district in which the shooting occurred. Hospital physicians say that one of the three wounds is two weeks old.

Detective Jerry Deasy believes that the man may have been wounded in a holdup and an investigation is being made. Brown was left at the hospital by a friend who said he would return.

For Beauty

Flush out the poisons in this pleasant way

Beauty of complexion comes from the inside. So does all a woman's charm. Poisons and wastes in the system destroy them.

The quickest and best way to eliminate those poisons as they occur is this:

Drink a glass of water in the morning, hot or cold. Add a little "Epsonade." It will make a sparkling, pleasant drink. And it will flush the intestines quickly. You will see the results in an hour.

The method is gentle. It is due to acids of lemon and grape.

When you learn what this method means to you, have it always ready when you need it. It will bring you quick results, and gentle, any hour of the day.

Prove this by a test. Learn how easy it is to correct wrong conditions without delay. Your druggist will sell you a small quantity of "Epsonade" at small cost.

FIRE STRIKES TWICE AT TRANSFER STABLE

Firemen made two trips last night to the stable of the Guy & Epperly Transfer Company, 206 Penn avenue. The total damage was about $100. The first alarm came in shortly after 6:30 o'clock and resulted from a blaze of undetermined origin in the rear of the place. An hour later another fire resulted in their being recalled.

3 Bandits Split $1.50 After Robbery

Times are getting hard in the holdup business. Three "stick-up" men held up Hollis Wilson, Negro, of 111 Wolfendale street, at Lincoln and Allegheny avenues, North Side, yesterday for a total of $1.50.

COUNCIL DRAFTS $15,000 FOR BALLOONISTS

The holding of the national elimination balloon races in Pittsburgh on Memorial Day, May 30, practically was assured by action of Council yesterday.

On motion of Councilman James F. Malone that body without a dissenting vote extended an invitation to the National Aeronautical Association to hold the contest here.

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt then was instructed to prepare an ordinance authorizing an appropriation not to exceed $15,000 to defray expenses. This ordinance will be presented Monday. This move was opposed by Councilman Daniel Winters, who expressed doubt of its legality.

"We have invited and entertained princes, potentates and a queen who didn't arrive," remarked Councilman Robert Garland. "To my mind this is a real American thing, and a good thing for our city."

"When this money is appropriated," said Malone, "the races will be a city function for the benefit of all of our people."

TRAIN KILLS LABORER

The severed body of an unidentified laborer was found on the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks near Roup Station this morning by the crew of an eastbound passenger train. The man is believed to have been struck by the Pennsylvania Limited, eastbound, shortly after 7 a. m.

GARLAND URGES PASSAGE OF BOND ISSUE

"No logical argument can be advanced against the proposed $7,268,000 peoples' bond issue to be voted upon at the election Tuesday, Robert Garland, chairman of the councilmanic finance committee, said in a statement today.

"I am strong for the bond issue," he said. "The money provided will be used judiciously and in the best judgment of the Mayor and council in practically every ward in the city for what might be termed necessary minor improvements.

"It seems to me that every citizen having the general welfare of our community at heart should not only be favorable to the proposed issue in every praticular, but should be a partisan in its behalf. There are six questions—$1,500,000 for repaving streets and reconstructing sewers, $4,200,000 for new streets, $150,000 for park improvements, $498,000 for new sewer improvements, $300,000 for betterment of playgrounds and $600,000 for extension of the water system. Our various boards of trade have given the movement their heartiest indorsement. I have not heard of any opposition and can not conceive how there could be any logical argument advanced against this issue."

Principals and Members of Chorus -:- "The Red Widow" -:- Kaufmann Players' Musical Show

JOAN TYLER is a member of the cast of "The Red Widow," musical show to be presented by the Kaufmann Players in Syria Mosque, the week of April 30.

THIS GROUP of lassies, dancing so prettily, also graces the cast of "The Red Widow," in which their voices also will be in evidence in choral numbers. The play is to be presented for the Fellow Workers' Beneficial Association. These girls and others have been rehearsing faithfully.

ALAN GUMBERT, who starred in "The Firefly" last year, also takes a prominent part in "The Red Widow," of which Frank W. Shea is the director.

Many Children of Widowed Mothers Meet With Success As Players in Silent Drama

By MILDRED FILLMORE

ABRAHAM LINCOLN once said, so I've read somewhere, that "the children of widowed mothers always turn out well." He said that, of course, many years ago. We, today, turning our eyes movieward, find the truth of Mr. Lincoln's little assertion strikingly demonstrated. Many of our successful screen players are widows' children.

Take Jacqueline Logan. This actress is a descendant of the historic Gen. Logan. But famous ancestors aren't much help in a little girl's upbringing. Ask Jacqueline's mother. She knows.

Alice and Marceline Day have a widowed mother, who made many sacrifices to educate her two daughters. Dorothy Dwan's mother is the widow of an army officer. Dorothy, you know, first won screen note as heroine with Tom Mix. She has graduated to M-G-M's Technicolor films. Then there is Louise Fazenda.

But so numerous are these screen-playing children of widowed mothers, that a limited space forces us to omit many interesting details. We can offer you the names of some more of them, however: Billie Dove, Blanche Mehaffey, Joan Crawford, Robert Armstrong, Richard Barthelmess, Gertrude Astor, Madge Bellamy, Mary and Jack Pickford, Lillian and Dorothy Gish, Gloria Swanson, Lois Moran, Warren Kerrigan, Maragret Livingston, Elinor Fair, Janet Gaynor and George Lewis.

Did you know that the secret of the "fadeout" was discovered 15 years ago by the pioneer director, D. W. Griffith, when he made "The Last of the Mohicans," with Mary Pickford and Owen Moore in the leading roles? Mr. Griffith accomplished this camera novelty by slowly blotting out the scenes from the camera lens, with the aid of a cigar box and cover. Today the "fadeout" is as necessary as the titles.

It looks as though the entire Navy is to be the victim of Clara Bow's flirtatious eyes. Word just has been received that "The Fleet's In" is to be one of Clara's new pictures. This drama will be made upon the completion of her "Ladies of the Mob."

Another bit of news from the Paramount headquarters is that Bebe Daniels' next picture will be "The News Reel Girl." Bebe recently completed "Thee Fifty-Fifty Girl," soon to be released.

Those movies! One never knows what will be next. Now we learn that Spec O'Donnell, an Irish lad, portrays a Jewish boy in "Roulette," starring Richard Barthelmess. The picture is based on Fannie Hurst's short story. In it Richard has a dual role—that of twin brothers, one a district attorney and the other a convict. That situation ought to make for "drammer."

Another Biblical film is in the making. It is "Noah's Ark." Warner Brothers are the producers and the cast includes Dolores Costello and her sister, Helene, George O'Brien, Louise Fazenda, Noah Beery, Myrna Loy and Leila Hyams. Who will portary Noah remains one of the current movie mysteries.

HAMPDEN HERE NEXT WEEK

The box office sale of seats for the engagement of Walter Hampden in the Alvin next week begins at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. His performance of "Hamlet," Monday evening is given to commemorate the anniversary of the birth of Shakespeare. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, with the Wednesday matinee, he will present "Cappensacchi," romantic play based on a dramatic narrative by Browning. Friday and Saturday matinee and night, he will appear as Doctor Stockman, in Ibsen's satirical comedy "An Enemy of the People."

The seat sale in the Nixon will open tomorrow morning for the third week of the photoplay spectacle of the air, "Wings." There are daily matinees of this picture.

Next week's play of the George Sharp Players in the Pitt is to be "Young Blood," which was played in the same theater with a cast including Norman Trevor, Helen Hayes and Eric Dresser. Ralph Morgan and Anne Forrest will have leading roles. The seat sale opens tomorrow morning.

Leonore Ulric, who appeared here recently in "Lulu Belle" is to headline the Keith-Albee vaudeville program in the Davis next week. She will present a playlet written especially for her, entitled "A Legend of London." Sidney Blackmer, will appear in her support.

MOVIES' WHEEL PUZZLE SOLVED

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 18.—(AP.)—A twenty year puzzle of the motion picture industry—how to make buggy wheels appear to turn forward instead of backward on the screen—is announced as solved at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

The soultion, discovered by John Nickolaus, laboratory head, was found to be in painting out groups of spokes, which gives the appearance of greater space between and permits the camera and the eye to follow them correctly. On buggy wheels, four sets of two spokes each were painted out, using differing shades.

Two-Reel Films With Stage Players

Emanuel Cohen, director of the Paramount short feature department, has arranged with Eugene Spitz, producer, for the distribution of a series of 12 two-reel pictures to be released under the brand name of "Great Stars and Authors."

Spitz has an agreement with the Actors' Fund of America and the Authors' League Fund whereby he will draw on the talents of the greatest legitimate actors and actresses of the day, and the writing brains of the most popular short story novelists for his pictures.

Production of the first picture, "Two Masters," is now under way at the Cosmopolitan Studios, New York, under the direction of Edward Lawrence and John McCutcheon, with Mr. Spitz as production supervisor. The story is an original by Rita Weiman, and the cast includes Mary Eaton, star of the legitimate attraction, "The Five O'Clock Girl," Rex Cherryman, who plays one of the leading roles in the dramatic production, "The Trial of Mary Dugan," and Carroll McComas, Clark Silvernail, Minnie Dupree, Tammany Young, Eddie Nelson, Jenny Eustace, Ann Sutherland and Eddie Robbins.

What to do with children

When children refuse to eat or develop strange appetite disorders, and consequently become nervous, anaemic and run down, the trouble may often be traced to the lack of vital substance which is abundant in yeast.

As a tonic, regulator, stimulant and corrective for appetite and digestive troubles, give dried yeast to your children.

Yeast Foam Tablets are an absolutely pure food, they don't ferment; they help build healthy tissue and strong normal bodies. And this is the only yeast that is easy to eat and has a delicious taste.

SCHOOL IS SPLIT

OHIO FACULTY BACKS OUSTED MEMBER

International News Service.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., April 18.—Following a student "strike" Monday, when 400 pupils paraded the streets here, refusing to attend classes, the St. Clairsville High School today faced the possibility of a "faculty strike."

The students refused to return to school Monday as a result of the forced resignation of J. H. Earps, principal, Saturday. Earps had been charged with stealing candy from a confectionery. He is said to have admitted the charge, declaring that he and several students committed the theft "in a spirit of play."

Monday morning, after the board of education had demanded and received Earp's resignation, 400 students paraded the streets, headed by the high school band, and carrying banners bearing such slogans as "We Want Earps," and "We Want Justice."

In the afternoon the board of education consented to give Earps a hearing and sent a wire to him in Pittsburgh. Ten members of the faculty had supported the students in their protest and adopted a resolution urging reinstatement of Earps.

Superintendent W. E. Arter failed to sign the resolution and the protesting faculty members now say that unless the board of education dismiss him, at a meeting tomorrow night, they will all resign.

Earps had not answered the telegram requesting his return this morning and there was no indication as to the attitude of the board of education towards the faculty members' ultimatum. Superintendent Arter was reported on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

HAYS SLASHES TAX MILLAGE

Hays Borough Council last night announced a reduction of one mill in the millage for this year. The new taxes will be 14 mills. Council also announced that money was on hand to redeem $10,000 worth of bonds due May 1. The bonds were issued some time ago for the construction of a municipal building.

W. Liberty Ave. Repairs Tie Up Tube Traffic

Repairs being made in West Liberty avenue, are causing numerous tieups in the vicinity of Liberty Tubes. This morning new rails were being laid for the Pittsburgh Railways Company and the jam caused a delay of almost a half hour to heavy city-bound traffic. During the rush hour last night there was a similar jam.

Just drop "Freezone" on any tender, touchy corn. Instantly it stops aching; then shortly you just lift that old bothersome corn right off with your fingers. It works like a charm, every time. Seems magic.

To Control and Direct Your Own Mind and Others

Comes this New Book by JAMES ALEXANDER

Thought-Control in Everyday Life

To be able to control one's own thoughts in the rush and stress of modern life is something not to be despised.

This new volume is divided into two parts. Part One is descriptive and aims to show the reader all the factors that work against him in the endeavor to control his thoughts. Part Two is entirely practical and has specific directions to attain gratifying results.

Thought-Control in Everyday Life is no armchair treatise. It is avowedly intended for practical purposes—for actual use in everyday life, alike in the busy outer world and the privacy and quietude of the home.

It is written in plain language that may be easily understood by the average reader. All of the instructions, hints, and advice are equally applicable to both sexes.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Visions of Riviera Aroused by Plans for Cabaret and Bazar to Be Given at Sewickley

ON THE Riviera and at Monte Carlo the season is at its gayest. The picturesque cabarets of the Old World are thronged nightly with pleasure-loving cosmopolitanites and visitors from abroad. Pittsburgh and Sewickley society never believes in lagging behind; so its members who are in the city may enjoy a taste of Europe's play resorts right down in Sewickley. The Girls' Club of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church will entertain the social world at a cabaret and bazar to be conducted, you have heard, in the recreation room of the St. Stephen's Episcopal Church of Sewickley. The affair is in charge of the Girls' Club and is, of course, a benefit.

There will be dancing, I hear, from 8 to 12 o'clock, and diversified entertainment. And refreshments, of course.

Among the things planned to entertain the guests in addition to the bazar and the dancing are songs by a chorus, solos, specialty dances, and comedy skits.

Mrs. James Barlow Cullum, Jr., is general chairman. She will be assisted by Mrs. Oscar Rosenfeldt and Mrs. Raymond Ganner, in charge of the bazar; Elizabeth Hayes, tickets; Barbara Book, refreshments; Mrs. J. R. Williams, decorations.

The chorus for the evening will include Susan Barley, Emma Barley, Mary Harvey, Helen Kamp, Elizabeth McFarland, Florence Gilbert, Anna and Alice Grappan.

Of course there couldn't be a cabaret without charming cigaret venders. In charge of them will be Elizabeth Fraser and Mrs. Anna McFarland.

IN P. C. W. CONCERTS

Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, pianist and composer, played a group of her own compositions today for the assembly at Pennsylvania College for Women. Mrs. Maybell Davies Rockwell was assisting singer. Mrs. Beach is also playing this afternoon at a faculty reception.

MRS. H. H. A. BEACH

The waitresses, as well as the cigaret girls, in any attractive cabaret must be attractive young persons, too. The waitresses Saturday night will surely fill all the requirements. They include Priscilla Brown, Dorothy Dunham, Eleanor Gilchrist, Elizabeth Hayes, Mrs. Edna Hayes, Mrs. Elizabeth Johansen, Elizabeth Fraser, Dorothy Scaife and Betty Wray.

In this industrial age, seemingly so far removed from the days when a few lucky individuals had only to rub a magic lantern to have their wishes granted, it is a bit difficult to believe that there are still fairy tales. But there are. Of course this fairy tale is modernized insomuch as the travelers are using airplanes, trains and steamships instead of the flying rugs for traveling.

In this instance the Walter A. Mays, of Solway street, are the ones who are making this story come true. To celebrate their silver wedding anniversary on April 27 they wanted their friends to be with them. Since the Mays are in Paris it might seem a bit difficult to gather one's friends from Pittsburgh all together for such an event. The Mays solved the problem by inviting 75 of their friends to come to Paris as their guests. The party left the Union Station last night in four cars reserved for them, and they will sail on the Aquitania today, arriving in Paris for the anniversary day.

The party will remain in Paris about 10 days, I understand, and from there they will make quite a few of the many attractive side trips out from the French capital. They will visit the battlefields, I believe, and also will go to Fontainebleau and to Versailles. Later they will go South for a tour of the Riviera, stopping for a short time at the different watering places.

One of the most interesting features of the whole trip, perhaps, will be the trip by air from Paris to London, which most of the party will take. The Mays have chartered 40 airplanes to take their guests to London. The party expects to be back in Pittsburgh again early in May. They plan to sail from Cherbourg on the Berengaria on May 5 and will land in New York May 11.

The group which left here last night, naturally, consisted entirely of the Pittsburgh friends of the Mays and, I understand, several more guests will be picked up today in New York for the voyage.

Among those I noted in the party at the station last night were the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Goldenson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Feuchtwanger, Mr. and Mrs. Max Blum, Mr. and Mrs. Eli B. Kaufman, Mrs. Julius Hertz, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Affelder, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Arnfeld, Mrs. Stella S. Lazarus, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Steinfirst, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney M. Rosenthal, W. A. May, Jr., Jacob Benedict, Mr. and Mrs. J. Rice, Stanley B. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Benedict, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Newman, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Block, Miss Minnie Affelder, Mr. and Mrs. S. Gallinger, Mrs. Bella Feldman, Mr. and Mrs. A. Fromme, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Klein, Mrs. Mollie S. Kaufmann, Mrs. Ida Loewenstein, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Gallinger, Mr. and Mrs. Isidore Rothstein, Mrs. E. Benswanger, Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Mayer, Mrs. J. Adolph, Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Fleishman, Mr. and Mrs. O. I. Affelder, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Sachs, Mr. and Mrs. J. Byron Deacon, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Foster, Mrs. L. J. Affelder, Mr. and Mrs. A. Heilbroner and Miss Florence Lebowitz.

You know, perhaps, that the Mays have been away from Pittsburgh for several months, making a tour around the world. They are in Paris now, I understand, to await the arrival of their friends.

Sewickley, by the way, is going to give another benefit that will attract the social world. And this time it will be in the form of a country fair, the good, old-fashioned kind. The event, as you know, will be on May 4 at the Edgeworth Club as a benefit for the Sewickley Child Health Association.

Among the society girls who will help sell things in the many booths to be featured are three Pittsburgh society girls, who will work with Virginia Goldsbury, one of Sewickley's most charming young girls. The Pittsburgh girls are Betty Scott, Genevieve Bell and Josephine Nicola.

The dramatic club of the Arnold School will present "A Comedy of Errors" Friday night in the gymnasium of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association. Lowell Innes, of the English department, is directing the cast. A dance will follow the play.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Kathryn Gilbert, of Mansfield, O., to Edward L. Davidson, of Mansfield, formerly of this city, son of the Rev. and Mrs. E. R. Davidson, of Ingram. The wedding will take place in May. Mr. Davidson is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh.

The engagement of Miss Edna Virginia Weaver, daughter of Mrs. Jessie H. Weaver, of Center street, Wilkinsburg, to Stewart Wilbur Moulton, of the East End, has been announced. No wedding date has been set.

The Phi Kappa, national men's social fraternity of the University of Pittsburgh, will hold its annual spring formal dance tonight in the Pittsburgh Field Club. The committee in charge includes William F. Kern, chairman; Joseph T. Bower, John J. Shaub and Leo P. Sheedy. The chaperons are to be Dr. and Mrs. F. O'Connor, Miss Katherine MacCloskey and M. Storer.

Miss Janet McLean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Franklin McLean, of Stratford avenue, has chosen May 12 as the date for her marriage to Karl Straub, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar K. Straub, of Clinton, Pa. The wedding will take place in the Straub home.

The Pittsburgh Alumnae Chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta, women's national social fraternity, will entertain the University of Pittsburgh chapter at tea Saturday in the chapter house in Neville street.

The Pittsburgh Alumnae Chapter of Delta Gamma will hold a benefit bridge party Saturday in the Congress Clubhouse for the benefit of the Jessie Robertson Kingery Scholarship Fund. Miss Mary Adeline McKibbin is chairman, assisted by Mrs. H. B. Kirkpatrick, Miss Pauline Piper, Miss Anne Todd and Miss Louise Thompson.

The Past Matron's Club of Electa Chapter, O. E. S., is sponsoring a series of activities, the first to be a play to be given April 26 and 27 in the King School of Oratory, Knoxville, by students of the school. The play is "One Night Only," and it is given for the benefit of the chapter. Mrs. Edith Dunkins, president of the club, is general chairman.

DRAMA LEAGUE OPENS CONTEST FOR AMATEURS

The Pittsburgh Drama League's fourth annual amateur players' contest was begun last night in the East Liberty Carnegie Library, where it will be continued tonight and tomorrow night. Tonight's bill includes "The Giant Stair," by the West Virginia University Dramatic Club; "Two by Two," the Associated Players; "Peggy," Barrymore Dramatic Club of New Kensington High School, and "In the Morgue," Reading Community Players.

The presentation of "Release" and Rita Creighton Smith's "The Rescue" were the two outstanding offerings of last night, the former being by the South Hills Repertoire Players and the latter by the Puppets of Pittsburgh. Both showed meticulous training, carefulness in detail and a high degree of histrionic ability. Edward H. Smith's little tragedy of the four captured boys was done with convincing virility and verisimilitude by Howard R. Eulenstein, Frederick G. Clerihue, William B. Stricker, William C. Roe, Jr., and C. Paul Crofford, while the interpretations of Olivia Kelly, Margaret Murray and Rita Cristie in the Puppets' production were things of unusual beauty. Their expressions alone, both facial and vocal, lifted the work of these three young women above the plane of the amateur. The voices are lovely-speaking organs, delicately nuanced, such as are all too rarely heard in these days of jazz speaking as well as jazz music. The settings and lightings also, especially for "The Release," are deserving of a special word of praise. The other two plays were "Alien Sins," by the Ralph Schugar Club, and "Op-O'-Me-Thumb," by the Play and Players Club of Latrobe.

Elmer Kenyon, president of the league, called attention to the increasing importance of the contests and announced the lecture on "George Bernard Shaw and the Theater Guild," by Lawrence Langner, founder of the Theater Guild, in Carnegie Lecture Hall next Wednesday evening.

A rummage sale will be held May 14 at the South Side Market for the benefit of Brashear Settlement. A campaign for funds to make some very necessary repairs on the Settlement buildings had been outlined for last November, but when the North Side explosion occurred on the very day the campaign was to have opened, these plans were set aside and the Brashear committee gave up all their efforts in favor of relief organizations. The old home of Dr. John A. Brashear, which is now the community home of so many people in that neighborhood, is woefully in need of paint, renovation and repairs, towards which the rummage sale proceeds will go. A card or telephone message to Mrs. John M. Phillips, Brownsville road, and arrangements will be made for the collection of clothing, household articles or furniture. South Hills club women are serving on the sale committees.

BETTY BRONSON

GIRLHOOD'S GREATEST BEAUTY CHOSEN

Film world says most appealing charm is smooth skin

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—Speaking eyes, enticing lips, beautiful hair—all these the movie star may have but they avail her nothing, say directors, if she is not possessed of smooth skin. "Studio Skin" must be exquisitely smooth for Klieg lights are all-revealing in the close-ups.

Herbert Brenon, director for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, says, "The most appealing single beauty a girl can have is certainly exquisitely lovely skin." And all Hollywood agrees that every actress who has become a star has had skin of exceptional loveliness.

Nine out of ten stars find Lux Toilet Soap is marvellous for smooth skin. Betty Bronson, enchanting young star, enthusiastically declares, "I find this lovely soap is wonderful for my skin."

All the big film studios have placed Lux Toilet Soap in their dressing rooms, which indicates clearly enough how definitely they value smooth skin. Lux Toilet Soap is made by Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

STATE AIDS WITH GUARD RAILS

DEVICES USED BEST, SAFEST MADE

Guard rails on dangerous curves and steep hills of Pennsylvania highways is part of this state's contribution to highway safety, states Samuel Eckles, chief engineer, Pennsylvania Department of Highways, one of the most active promoters of the state's April Safety "Save-a-Life" campaign, now being conducted by automobile men throughout the state.

The guard rails erected by the Pennsylvania Department of Highways are conceded to be the latest and safest that can be produced. They were selected after the most careful tests by the bureau of tests of the Department of Highways.

These guard rails are known as "wire rope guard fences." The wooden posts used in their construction are chestnut, locust or red cedar, at no place less than six inches in diameter nor less than seven feet in length. A portion of the posts in the ground are coated with creosote, for preservation purposes, in accordance with specified requirements. They are not treated until thoroughly dry.

The wire rope used is either of a three-quarter-inch or one-inch rope and is manufactured of double galvanized annealed steel. All of the wires are required to be of the same grade of steel and of approximately the same breaking strain. The diameter of the finished wire entering into the rope is not less than .117 inches and not more than 124 inches. They must stand an impact of not less than 13,000 pounds.

These posts are painted black, about 12 inches above the ground, and white to the top of the posts. They serve as a guide for night travelers as well as a guard rail. This double function has been highly useful in safety.

AMERICAN CARS FIRST IN CZECHO-SLOVAKIA

More than one-half the motor cars in Czecho-Slovakia are of American make. French makes are second in number.

ALONG AUTO ROW

With every member of automobile organizations in this city busily engaged endeavoring to satisfy the demand for new automobiles, this spring season is expected to bring a new record in the volume of business transacted.

SHOWING NEWEST WHIPPET

Many motor car distributing organizations are attracting large crowds to their showroom floors by new or novel displays or offerings of motor cars. The Rea-Seagert Company, distributor of Whippet and Willys-Knight cars, is the latest to join the ranks of those attracting the attention of the public. This company now is showing the newest creation of the Willys factories, the Whippet Six, announced a week ago. This car is expected to create a new field of automobile owners.

RACES AT BRIDGEVILLE

A note from Bridgeville brings to attention that racing on the track in that town will begin on Decoration Day. Three events have been planned for that day. Two of these races will be 25-mile affairs, while the third will go for 50 miles.

MARCHING TO RECORD

The Steel City Automobile Company, Peerless distributor, is marching along to a new record in automobile sales. The company is now engaged in the second week of its second annual "Years Greatest" new car sale. As the result of a novel merchandising offer, in which the car is serviced for the road and owner protection, the end of the week is expected to bring a new high mark in new car sales. The company today will broadcast baseball scores through KDKA.

Leads off first and holds its lead

With more horsepower per pound than any other motor car in its class, the Victory easily triumphs in performance.

For this exceptional ratio of power to weight gives the Victory an advantage which its rivals simply cannot hope to compete with.

You notice the difference instantly at the take-off—the Victory always leading. You notice it still more at top speed—the Victory always holding its lead. And when the hills are reached, all attempts to follow the Victory abruptly end.

Rugged Dodge construction makes possible this calibre of power, and the car's unique and beautiful design is peculiarly adapted to fast, smooth travel.

The chassis frame, for instance, is the full width of the body—eliminating body overhang and sidesway. And the gravity (or safety) center is lower because there are no body sills.

A car that deserves the brilliant welcome it has received—and one that you should drive and study at your first opportunity.

At Lansing Plus Tax

IF you long to step high and handsomely on boulevard and open road, Reo builds a car especially for you. It is the Reo Wolverine: $1195 and $1295, at Lansing, plus tax.

But you will not buy on these prices alone, not if you're young enough to believe that getting somewhere with speed and dash is very important.

That is the Wolverine's chief motive in life.

For the Reo Wolverine puts to shame the speed claims of many cars costing hundreds of dollars more.

And Reo gives the Wolverine the chassis and the safety brakes that make such speeds safe and possible.

Yes, this is a youthful automobile that doesn't have to sell on price. Not with its lines, its colors, its brakes, its heavy chassis, its husky motor, its speedy "get-up-and-go."

Try out this Reo Wolverine. You'll be surprised.

FIELD DAY PLANNED FOR WOMEN MOTOR DRIVERS

AUTO EXPERTS TO EXPLAIN OPERATION

Feminine Pittsburgh's one ambition is to become motorwise and learned in highway lore, and the automobile dealers of Pittsburgh are going to do everything to assist them in the realization of their ambition.

This was the announcement made yesterday by W. N. Owings, secretary of the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association, at a luncheon given by that organization in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association. The luncheon was addressed by G. E. Clarkson of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council, which organization is now conducting a Safe Drivers School for Women.

According to Mr. Owings' talk a field day will be staged at Schenley Oval next Wednesday for those attending the Safe Drivers School for Women and other members of the fair sex of this district. Thirty distributors of automobiles in this city will send cars and automotive experts to the oval for the occasion.

The cars will be grouped about the inside of the oval and women drivers will be asked to park their cars at the exhibit of the same make of car. Service men and automotive experts will be in attendance to explain motor operation and the various automotive parts and devices.

Members of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council and of the Better Traffic Committee also will be in attendance to assist the automobile men in caring for the large number of women expected.

NO LEFT TURN IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, April 18.—The "no U-turn rule," a new loop traffic regulation, has been put into effect in Chicago.

Motorists may drive straight through the Loop, but to get from one spot of the downtown district to another, he must loop the loop—turn to the right, once more to the right, around and around until he gets there.

Capt. Matchett, head of the traffic division, predicts that the new rule will mean faster moving downtown traffic than can be found in any other great city. Mayor Thompson has not yet signed the new ordinance, but is expected to do so.

CAR FOR 1 IN 5 PERSONS SHOWN

Motor vehicles registered in 1927 numbered more than 23,000,000, according to statistics gathered from state registration departments by the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. The total registration of 23,127,315 vehicles was composed of 20,230,429 passenger vehicles and 2,896,886 motor trucks and road tractors. This registration represents an increase of 1,125,922 vehicles, or 5 per cent more than in 1926. Using the population estimate for the middle of last year, there was one motor vehicle for every 5.13 persons. As in other recent years, motor vehicle receipts constituted a substantial contribution to funds for road construction. The total receipts from registration fees and licenses amounted to $301,061,132.

HEAVY RAIN SAFER THAN LIGHTER FALL

A light rainfall often makes the highways exceedingly slippery, in fact, in most cases, is far more dangerous than driving along in a heavy downpour.

TRAFFIC FLOWS FREE-:-OVER BOULEVARD-:-TO LIBERTY AVENUE

NO MORE TIEUPS

COSTLY BIT OF ROAD

A few yards of thoroughfare, under the Wabash terminal, have made possible a free flow of traffic down the Boulevard of the Allies to Liberty avenue. The short stretch of roadway, which was opened to traffic yesterday, cost the city about half a million dollars.

BOASTS BIG CITY WIDTH

BOTTLE NECK ELIMINATED

The widening of the Boulevard of the Allies at Ferry street was a difficult task because of the railroad passenger and freight terminal and warehouse overhead. The widened street surface at this point will eliminate traffic tieups that were a problem of a few months ago.

THREE HIGHWAYS TO CALIFORNIA

Motorists from Pittsburgh who are planning to drive to California this summer have a choice of three routes. They can drive over the Yellowstone Trail west to Seattle or Tacoma, thence south to Southern California, or they can travel over the Lincoln highway to Salt Lake City and southwest over the Arrowhead Trail to Los Angeles. A third choice is the National Old Trails, through Indianapolis, St. Louis and Kansas City, thence southwest through Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona on to Los Angeles and the Pacific coast.

There are a few vital things to attend to in trans-continental motoring, especially as regards camping out. Carry spare tires mounted, tow rope and other necessary car equipment; warm clothing, extra gasoline and oil, a stout tent with canvas fly to use in case of rain, a long-handled shovel and an ax; a flashlight, sleeping-bags or blankets, sun glasses for desert driving, some simple medical remedies and a small stock of food; the simplest possible cooking outfit with tin plates, cups and saucers. Take fishing tackle and a camera along, and if carrying firearms, take rigid precautions with them always.

Pitch camp on high ground, near good water, and do not wait until dark to do it. Build small fires and extinguish them carefully before going to bed and when breaking camp. The entire expense of a trip should not be more than $5 a day a passenger.

BATTERY CARE IN SUMMER

Stressing the importance of proper care of the storage battery to insure trouble free operation during the spring and summer months, David Gregg, automotive research engineer, says in part:

"With the coming of warm weather the car is in constant use. Less current is needed to operate the starter, the lights are not so frequently used, and the car is driven at higher speeds and for longer periods. For these reasons the battery is often overcharged, and if this condition is kept up serious battery damage will result through plates buckling.

"Some drivers leave their lights burning on long trips to reduce the current going to the battery, but at best, this is a makeshift arrangement. The best plan is to drive into your service station and have the charging rate of the generator changed for summer conditions. This takes but a few minutes and is a precaution well worth while. Then check the water level in the battery at frequent intervals, filling with distilled water as needed. Check the battery cables for tightness, and keep them coated with vaseline or gease to prevent corrosion.

"More headlight bulbs are burned out due to loose cables or wires than for any other reason, for a loose wire on the battery increases the line voltage to that of the generator and makes the lights burn too brightly. Carry an extra kit of bulbs, and a few fuses and you're all prepared for summer driving so far as your battery is concerned."

ALCOHOL FUEL FOR MOTORS INVENTED

A new motor fuel, an alcohol mixture, has been invented in Warsaw, Poland. The liquid, which is made from ordinary alcohol of 92 to 94 proof, is said to give an easier start, smoother motion, and saves from 30 to 55 per cent of the fuel consumption as compared with benzine.

BRITAIN RANKS FIRST IN MOTORCYCLE OUTPUT

Great Britain now produces more motorcycles than any other country. Germany is second in output, followed by France and the United States.

CALIFORNIA AND KANSAS IN LEAD

New York, contrary to general belief, is not second to California in number of cars in proportion to population, according to the National Automobile Club. As a matter of fact, New York is considerably behind California in this respect, having one car to every 6.6 persons while there is a car to every 2.8 persons in California. The closest rival is Kansas, just a tenth behind.

AUTO AID BODY IN GERMANY

A motorists' aid association is a newly-founded organization in Germany for technically and personally aiding automobilists who meet with an accident on the road, by means of emergency stations to be erected throughout the country. Each station will be equipped with a telephone through which calls can be sent to some accessible emergency station for the requisite assistance.

STRAIN ON MOTOR CAR INCREASES WITH SPEED

The strain on a car increases in geometrical progression as the speed increases in arithmetical progression. In other words, the strain of driving a car at 40 miles an hour is four times the strain on the machine at 20 miles an hour, and at 80 miles an hour the strain is 16 times as great as at 20 miles an hour.

AUTO COURSE AT COLLEGE

AMES, IA., April 18.—The Iowa State College is conducting a short course in "Elements of the Automobile," sponsored by the visual instruction service and the department of trades and industries of the school.

Five meetings are scheduled, with two evening programs at which 16 reels of motion pictures will be shown, and every session is open to the public.

"The course purports to explain how an automobile is put together and how it is operated," Prof. G. I. Mitchell, of the college faculty, lecturer at the series, stated. The engine, the running gear and differential; the carburetor, fuel, ignition; the transmission, the cooling system and clutch are the various subject topics.

CARS LINE UP FOR RACE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 18.—(AP.)—A $25,000 wager over the relative merits of a Stutz Black Hawk and a French Hispano-Suiza automobile was the prize for which two privately-owned stock cars lined up at 1 o'clock today for the start of a 24-hour race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The Stutz is the property of F. E. Moskovich of Indianapolis, while the Hispano-Suiza belongs to C. T. Weymann of Paris, France. Plans for the contest were made in Paris nearly a year ago while Moskovich, president of the Stutz Motor Car Company, was in conversation with Weymann.

Gil Andersen and Tom Rooney, veteran American race drivers, are to alternate at the wheel of the Stutz. Weymann and Robert Bloch are to pilot the French machine.

It was announced that neither automobile factory had any interest in the race. It was sanctioned by the American Automobile Association. The 24-hour stock record for the Indianapolis Speedway was said to be 71.35 miles an hour, established by a Stutz in 1927.

Trade Rivalry With French and Germans in Africa

Difference Between Traders, Missionaries—Both Had Guns and One Took Bibles

What Has Gone Before

Sent to West Africa in the early seventies by the firm of Hatton & Cookson, Alfred Aloysius Horn, a boy from St. Edward's College, Liverpool, learned the ivory and rubber trade at the company's store in Gaboon under the tutelage of a native chief. The following is a continuation of the story of those days as written by Trader Horn himself at the age of 73.

Shocking Scenes to a Laddie

By ALFRED ALOYSIUS HORN.

Edited by ETHELREDA LEWIS.

CHAPTER IV.

HAVING given you a slight idea of the character of natives who inhabited the Gaboon I will describe to you, if possible, how the white traders as well as the natives were situated under the French government.

It must be remembered that at the time of my first few years on the coast the French were not as friendly and could naturally not be so to the Germans as they were to the Britishers. The sting of their great defeat at Sedan was still green in their memories and this fact was a great help to us English traders, as the big German house of Carl Woerman, of Hamburg, who was the only real opposition, was straining every nerve to gain possession of a fair share of the trade of this part of Africa.

Whilst the British and German traders were contending for supremacy in the ivory and rubber trade the French trade was insignificant compared to these two giants of commerce. The feeling between the British and German races toward each other and trade rivalry made no difference in their friendship to each other. Both took their success or defeats in gaining trade in a good-hearted sportsmanship manner, and when the day's work was over visited each other and even cracked jokes as to their various mistakes and vied with each other in hospitality. Mostly from Hamburg, they were a fine lot of men.

White Men Curios

By far the greatest number of natives who occupied Equatorial Africa were Mpangwes and their territory was immense, stretching from the coast and following the north bank of the Ogowe River into Central Equatorial Africa, yet unknown. They paid tribute to no man and were entirely free in every sense, and did not know or care about the Frenchmen, as the great majority of them had never seen a white man, whom they looked upon as a great curiosity.

I have entered many a Mpangwe village followed by a crowd of laughing women and children anxious to get a look at the white man whilst those who happened to be taken by surprise would clear quickly out of their houses and hide behind trees, etc.

Having learned the ivory and rubber trade I was sent to Adimanongo, the furthest up-country post of the firm. I boarded the Pioneer, a large paddle steamer belonging to Hatton and Cookson. As the rainy season was now over this was the last trip this boat could make up the river for six months or more. Coming to Cape Lopes we entered the river Ogowe and in a couple of days anchored off the town of Angola. Cape Lopes and this river mouth is inhabited by the Ceringus, mostly pirates and slave traders. And was then considered the most dangerous spot on the coast, especially to small sailing craft.

Leaving Angola we were soon in a well-inhabited country, and passed quite a number of villages each day. The Camma boys occupied the south bank of the river and on the north bank were Evilis and Shekhanis. Further up stream we passed Galwa and Okelly villages and then came the Mpangwe towns both on the right and left banks. The natives all cheered us, crowding the banks as we passed.

A Job of Surveying

On the point of an island we now had a view of Carl Woerman's splendid depot where there were large numbers of natives trading at the time. In a few minutes we drew up at the pier of Hatton and Cookson's trading depot and were received by the agent in charge, Mr. Sinclair. All were busy in no time landing and checking cargo and in a few days the steamer Pioneer departed with a full cargo made up of ivory, ebony, ball rubber, also tongue and flake rubber.

Mr. Sinclair was a tall, well-made Scotchman from the Orkney Islands and was a hard worker. He had an assistant named Mr. Surrey, who took fever shortly after I landed and died. I had full charge of the ivory and India rubber which came in and I must say we did double the trade at the depot at Gaboon. On the arrival of the new bookkeeper named Gibson, and most of the trade being over on account of the fall of the river, I was put to work surveying the Ogowe, carefully noting the position of the main river channels from the mouth to 100 miles above the trading station.

(At this point the writer stops to make some remarks to Mrs. Lewis. These spoken reflections contain a world of information as well as a running accompaniment of philosophy.)

Trader Philosophy

"If it's facts you're wanting I can give facts and novelties too. They are the basis of solid interest. The English set a great deal of store by facts, but if a book's to be sold in America you must keep an eye on the novelties. I know America. Best not throw too high a light on some of my experiences on the coast. It never does to give good folk a shock.

"Aye. Talk of dreadful scenes. . . . A young lad brought up never to think of evil nor read in in a book—and he gets to the coast at 18. . . . Seventeen it might 'a' been. . . . He feels revolt, ma'am. The shock of it's like to make him sick. He'll shy at everything, like a colt first driven through the streets that's known nothing but the fields. Aye. Even the cruelty's more than he can bear, although in those days I used to say my St. Edward's prayers every night same as I did in our dormitory.

"Renchoro, my Pangwe boy, used to say 'em too. He'd watch me very

4 KILLED AS HOME BURNS

SISTERSVILLE, W. Va., April 18.—The charred bodies of four children were removed from the ruins of their home at McElroy Creek, Tyler county, 15 miles from here, today, following a fire which swept the upper story of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Denton Tenant.

The dead are: Vonda, 8; Brooks, 10; Garnet, 7, and Bettylee, 3.

The older children, Harlie, 22, and Dannie, 17, escaped from the flames but were seriously burned. They were given medical treatment at the home of a neighbor.

The parents, sleeping on the first floor of the house, were awakened at 11 o'clock last night to find the upper story of their home a roaring furnace. The two children were able to leave the building before the blaze had cut off their escape.

Gas from a leaking pipe, ignited by a small lamp left burning on a table, was believed to have caused the fire.

1,000 JOIN MINERS' STRIKE

WHEELING, W. Va., April 18. — Approximately 1,000 miners in this district today heeded the call of the "Save the Union" movement, laid down their tools and walked out.

Eight hundred of the men were employed at the Arkwright, Boyd, Triadelphia and Rutneys Point mines of the Valley Camp Coal Company, a subsidiary of the J. A. Paisley interests of Cleveland. All are in the Panhandle district.

About 200 men employed at the Elm Grove and Richland mines of the Costanzo Mining Company quit work.

State troopers arrested 10 miners at Triadelphia when they refused to cease picketing on the National highway.

A mass meeting by "Save the Union" backers has been called for tonight in a Wheeling ball park.

EXCITEMENT SUBSIDES

Excitement which attended the "Save the Union" strike call in the bituminous coal fields of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio had subsided somewhat today with the announced determination of state and county police authorities to break up mass picketing. Only a few widely scattered districts reported demonstrations this morning and these were broken up without trouble, police report.

Coal operators throughout the district declared the resumption of almost normal operations in mines affected by the hectic combination of payday, Russian Easter and the "Save the Union" strike call.

Ring Lardner and I are seeing New York tonight and he has promised to say a few words of cheer to you. All I do is pay for the theater tickets and when the show drags I will laugh at him. Mr. Lardner now speaking. "Good evening, newspaper fans, I used to have to write in the newspapers for a living, too, it must be awful hard. Georgie Cohan is producing a new baseball play of mine which I hope you get more laughs out of than I do going around with Will Rogers. I have a song hit in it, sung by a Scotchman entitled, 'I Would Give a Thousand Dollars to Be a Millionaire.' That's all I will write for this guy for nothing. Yours, Ring Lardner."

LINCOLN'S BED HERE SAVED FOR MUSEUM

USED BY FAMOUS

Abraham Lincoln's bed in historic "Parlor 2," old Monongahela House, will be kept from curio collectors who have cast covetous eyes on it and other antiques there. Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania officers will have first call in case the bed is moved. Lincoln occupied the room and slept in the bed on the night of February 14, 1861, en route to his first inaugural. On October 1, 1860, it was used by the Prince of Wales, afterward King Edward VII. President Andrew Johnson slept in it in October, 1866, and it was twice occupied by Gen. U. S. Grant. Presidents Benjamin Harrison and McKinley and Admiral Farragut used it. Its last distinguished occupant was Col. Theodore Rosevelt, September 10, 1910. The room is 18 by 22 feet with a 14-foot ceiling. A white marble mantel and a massive mirror over an old-fashioned coal fireplace are among its original furnishings.

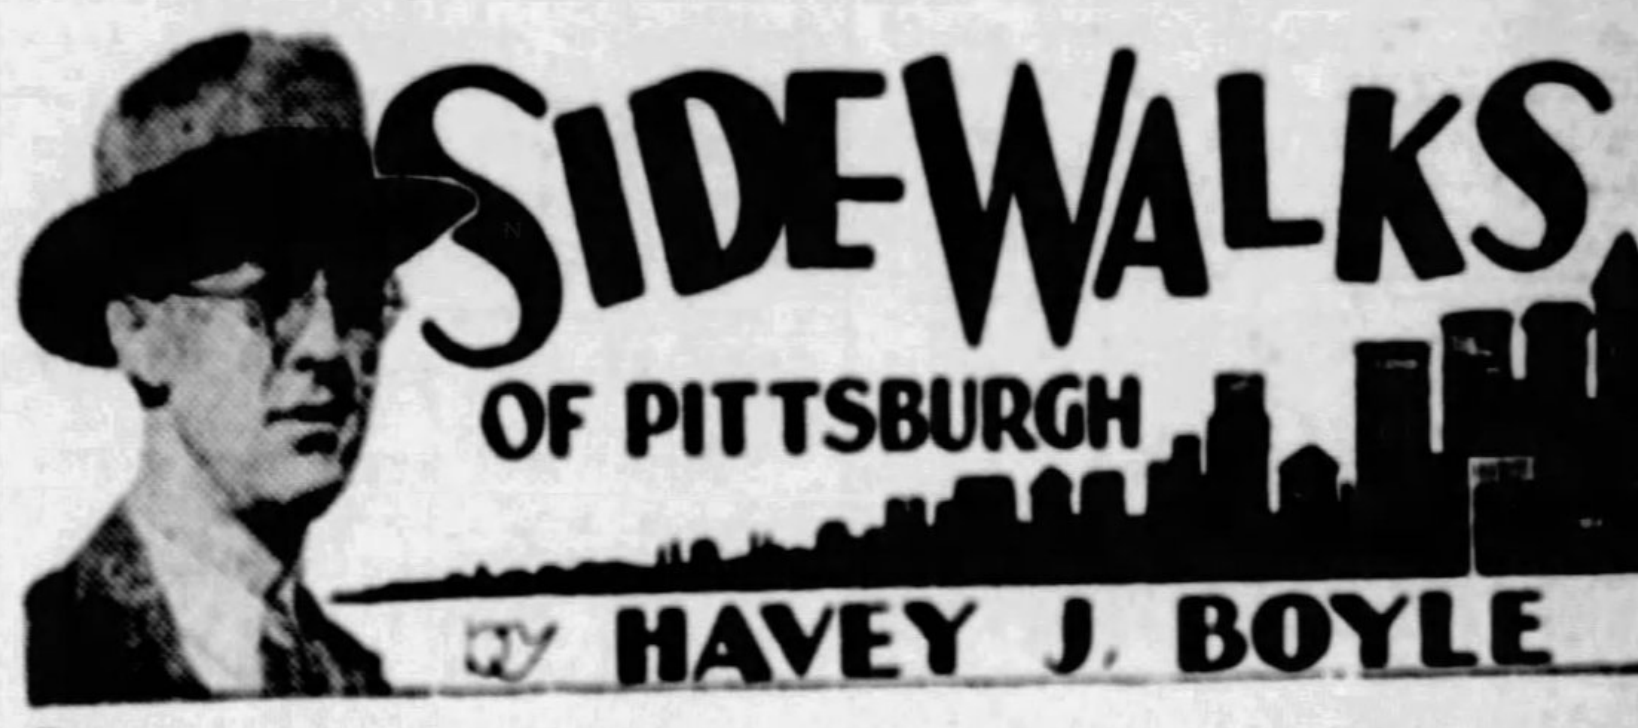
"BUY A TAG, MISTER!"

"Strike at the mighty" was the slogan of Pitt co-eds who had a tag day for the students' loan fund. And strike they did! Chancellor John G. Bowman couldn't refuse to buy when he was solicited by such comely maidens as Florence Schmidt and Thelma Buente.



SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

ON THE street the other day we ran across Jim McInerny, who, when he was a police lieutenant, figured in the news for a time as a noted bandit catcher.

A VERY long time ago Jim McInerny was a boxer. When he left the ring he didn't leave his knowledge of battling inside the ropes. He carried it with him into the army and into the police department.

JIM told an interesting story of his boxing days when he was known by the ring de plume of "Young Ketchell." His father, the late Squire McInerny, didn't know Jim was a boxer until one night some friends insisted that the Squire go out to the boxing show to see a youngster named "Young Ketchell." Squire McInerny was more than mildly surprised when he looked upon Young Ketchell. Young Ketchell, himself, was a little surprised when he looked over the ropes to see his father.

THAT Young Ketchell, being somewhat over-matched, took a beating, while an anxious father looked on. For sufficiently good reasons Young Ketchell decided he would not go straight home, postponing his return until a moment when perhaps his father might be away. But, at last, he met up with his father.

"There will be no prize fighter in my house," said Squire McInerny to his son, Jim. There was silence. "Say, why didn't you hold your left hand higher—you could have beaten that fellow the other night."

IN TRUTH, Jim was never a great ringster, but he made a mark in a bigger fight that was not equaled by many of the boxers considered his superior.

We got talking about his days as a soldier and Jim said that he had seen some action with the One Hundred and Seventh Field Artillery of the Twenty-eighth Division. A few questions and a few answers followed and there was enough in the talk to warrant further probing. At last he said something casual about a recommendation for a Distinguished Service Cross he was just a little proud of. He promised to show it to us some day. That was a little indefinite, so in the next couple of days we made it a point to ask him for the recommendation so we might read it.

"ON AUGUST 18, 1918," the recommendation reads in part, "Battery F, One Hundred and Eighth Field Artillery, was changing its battery position at Fismette, France. About midnight the supplies were unloaded at the new battery position when a salvo from the enemy landed in the midst of the detail carrying supplies. Private James L. McInerny was one of the detail carrying the phargon wagon with the rations and supplies. Two men were killed and several wounded. The wagon of which Private McInerny was in charge was hit and the horses, becoming panic stricken, broke loose and ran wild down a ravine toward Chery-Charteuve.

"Lieut. Dayton asked for volunteers to remove the dead and wounded, and though the enemy were shelling at three-minute intervals, Private McInerny, after having secured his team and wagon and placed them in comparative safety, was one of the first to volunteer. From his sheltered position on a hillside it was from three to four hundred yards to the spot where the wounded men were lying and this distance was swept by enemy fire.

"Private McInerny made three different trips, each time placing a wounded man in the phargon wagon and then went back again for five other men who were slightly wounded and guided them to the phargon wagon. All this under heavy fire and in total disregard of his own life.

"Such heroism, fidelity to duty and personal bravery was a shining example to everyone who came in contact with this soldier that night."

Mary Eunice Gives a Dinner. Jerry Looks Her Best for Saxon Will Be There

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Jerry King, good looking, charming and nineteen, falls in love with Saxon Rhodes, a young architect. When he goes abroad to study, Jerry promises to wait for him. Jerry agrees to wait three years longer. She wonders whether Saxon loves her as completely as she loves him. Saxon's attention to Ora Pringle gives Jerry a pang of jealousy. She decides to give Saxon up. She discovers that Marza has another daughter of whose existence her husband had been ignorant. Mary Eunice is to back Saxon to win in a contest. Jerry is jealous. Saxon tells Jerry he is paying his own way and once more she believes in him. Stephanie's operation is a success and the doctor is sure that she will walk. Stephanie falls in love with Heinie.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"WE'VE rationalized the remorse out of sinning; we've sex hygiened the romance out of love. And our ultimate achievement will be a world destitute of drama; a world where nothing matters; where triangles are tolerated and wailing wives obsolete.

"Make the most of tears while you may!"

Stephanie regarded her with bright, solemn eyes: "You didn't love him! You'd be one vast, suffering ache for all your philosophy if you did! Could all the cold reason in the world have soothed Marza's pain? Could you rationalize the tragedy out of Stephen's death?

"Jerry—you didn't love him!" Stephanie had her small hand tangled in the top-knot of Jerry's hair.

"What do you know of love, Stephanie?" said Jerry suddenly and flinging her head back to catch the look in her sister's eyes.

"Oh," said Stephanie turning crimson, "I think much of it. I've many theories. I wonder why a girl cares for one man and doesn't care for another who would make her vastly happy."

"You wonder why I don't love Heinie?"

"I can hardly believe that you don't, Jerry."

"Well, I've a deep affection for him. I've known him 80 years."

Bringing it out slowly—warmly: "Have you ever kissed him, Jerry?"

"About 767 times, more or less."

"I suppose you pet?"

"Do you? Not with Heinie, though."

"Don't you call kissing a mode of petting?"

"Not the kind of kisses I gave Heinie."

"Why don't you love him? Do you like Hugh better?"

"You mean would I marry Hugh before I would marry Heinie? Yes, I would. I love Heinie—you know the old stuff—like a sister." She thought gaily, and reaching up to give Stephanie's hand a tug and to put it back in her hair. She liked to have anyone pull her hair—she thought: "Now, ole dear, go to it and dream of him and woo him! The coast is clear for all of me!"

The days were passing as she had visioned them—work filling her days. Quiet or Hugh entertaining her nights.

"You're dogging it, aren't you?" Sylvia accused.

"You were mistaken about that—about her backing him. I went and found out. I went directly and asked him. He told me he had money enough of his own."

"Well, it would be like her to boast! That doesn't make her any the less worthless for him . . . a worthless, faking parasite!"

"You know the old platitude, Slyvia—one thing you never get by demanding and one thing you never keep by chaining is love. If Mary Eunice can hold him, she can. My hat's not in the ring for him!"

But as the summer passed and Mary Eunice continued her sway and as he quietly took for granted Jerry's acceptance of a calm, middle-aged friendship, she grew inwardly, burningly desperate.

One night she had a chance to test out Mary's hold—to see for herself ruthlessly, convincingly, Mary's power.

She should have ceased hoping after that. Only that she was 23—only that she was so much the woman.

CHAPTER LIV.

AUGUST again with the tawny fire of Indian Summer in the twilight pageant of the hills. Jerry, in a still excitement, plucked dead leaves from the primroses. Pretty, the way each delicte blossom is held in its little green cup.

A year ago they bloomed and faded just like this. And a year ago one Sunday Jerry stood here at Marza's porch garden, waiting with jangling nerves for a telephone to ring.

That was the time, her mind told her quietly, without evasion, they had reached the parting. And she waited for him to come; with the sweep of his arms and the touch of his lips annihilate the bitter fact.

A whole year since that house party at Phil Cowper's country place.

Tonight Phil was giving a dinner. It would be different from dinners at the week-ends—quite different. Yvonne Potter, Phil's bride, would adroitly see to this.

All that last summer Yvonne had graciously and with a large smile attended those week-ends. She tuned her tolerance so well that Phil eagerly and believing himself the courtier plunged into marriage.

Then Yvonne began to tighten the reins. They got off to a bad start with a wedding where even Sylvia, so they said, became mildly lit. But the wet summer was followed by a very dry winter, as Phil sheepishly told Inga.

Yvonne scratched various bootleggers from her six o'clock calling list. She relegated Ora Pringle, Jessie Reinach, Bud Malone and half a dozen other ladies and gentlemen of easy acquiescence to a bowing distance. The reforming of Phil went ahead femininely and triumphantly.

Yvonne spent Phil's income, compelled him to earn more, and saved him from the ruin his ill-timed legacy had started. He was happy.

Jerry was going to this dinner. She began to dress. "It's lucky Marza and I can wear the same clothes," she thought, slipping the crimson sequins over her head. "Wardrobes getting tacky. And I'm glad I look flashy in red!"

She observed with quickened pulse the shadowy purple fire in her eyes, the reckless taunt of her young, passionate mouth. Just how she wanted to look—high and go-to-the-devil-you!

Just how she wanted Saxon Rhodes to see her—always. "Why do I feel so? Why do I want him to think I don't give a damn?"

He would be there tonight. With Mary.

And it was bitterly important that Jerry should appear beautiful—taunting, indifferent, supreme. She smiled with faint contempt: "The woman of it, Cleopatra! We can't get away from it, can we?"

* * *

Mary Eunice wore emerald green. The color suited her shadowed eyes, her soft brown hair and skin, the texture of pale tan satin. She looked willowy and attractive sitting there on the divan with her legs swung back, half under her, her head lowered. Saxon spoke to her. A warm, meditative smile parted her lips. But she kept her eyes down and flushed. It was very maidenly and appealing.

And he liked it and gazed at her warmly.

Jerry saw this as she entered the room. The divan was nearest to her. Mary immediately made room and began talking in the most comradely way, clasping her hand in Jerry's.

"I was just telling Saxton what a clever thing you are, Jerry, but he seems to know it. I keep forgetting that you two are old friends.

"Still, he's not seen my purple room. You know, Sacks, I wanted it in black, but Jerry was afraid that would remind me of death and keep me pure like a nun. She insisted that I be saved from such a fate, and did it in purple. Wasn't that cunning in her?"

A touch of patronage in Mary's large friendliness. It made Jerry burn—this kindness of the victor to the displaced favorite.

"You know, Jerry," went on the rather obtuse Miss Pennings, "I wish you'd come down to Pebble Beach some week-end and help us decide on the details of the manor house. Join us, won't you?"

"All right," said Jerry, wickedly. "I'll have Sacks run me down any time you're inclined, Mary!"

She glanced into Saxon's eyes and gave him an appraising, faintly derisive smile. He was very uncomfortable.

Yet she knew that he was thinking Mary Eunice very sporty while she, Jerry, was unbending and subtly cat-like.

After dinner she gained a second flash. They were waiting for Yvonne to give them places at the card tables.

Madge Suggests That Eleanor Lincoln Might Give Dicky His Breakfast

CURIOUSLY enough, I felt no anger at Dicky's wrathful tirade because breakfast was not ready and he was afraid he would miss his riding appointment with Eleanor Lincoln. Instead there was an indefinable relief at this giving way upon my husband's part to one of his old-time tantrums. He had begun one or two minor outbursts before, but had always checked himself and gone back into the icy courtesy with which by tacit agreement we had treated each other ever since Grace Draper's death and her plot to poison Dicky and point suspicion of the act to me had worked such tragic havoc with our lives.

I realized, as I found myself almost welcoming Dicky's temporary outburst, how great had been the strain of that unnatural cold formality with which we had invested our infrequent conversations. But with feminine perverseness I could not forbear the use of it myself. It made too good a weapon for me to discard it lightly.

"I am sorry," I said, "but I do not see how I can help matters by going to the kitchen. Katie is already preparing breakfast for the family, and, as you know, it will only upset her to hurry her. If you had told me last night that you wished to get off so soon I could have managed an earlier breakfast for you very easily."

Dicky glared at me and I knew that my frigid calmness was far more irritating to him than a swift temporary lash-out at him would have be.ne

"Yes, you could!" he gibed bitterly. "Fat chance I had of telling you anything last night—you were so busy listening to the baas of that old goat Veritzen. And when he finally got away you and Lil rushed upstairs like girls at a boarding school crazy to talk over the evening."

I felt a treacherous little thrill of triumph—his jealous resentment against my employer was so patent. But I let no hint of it creep into my voice.

"But it was so thrilling and interesting an evening," I said, with a meek reasonableness certain to infuriate any irate husband looking for a conjugal fracas, as I knew Dicky was. "And surely you had a chance to tell me you wanted breakfast early before I went upstairs. I am afraid it won't be much use, but I'll try to see if I can bring you something out here right away, unless"—I paused, as if a happy solution of the whole matter suddenly had flashed upon me—"won't Miss Lincoln give you breakfast? Mrs. Ticer gets there early, and she really serves as delicious breakfast dishes as does Katie."

Strategically I had reached the door before I made the suggestion, and I went swiftly through it before Dicky had a chance to answer it. But I was not far enough away to escape hearing the highly expressive salutation to powers supernal which he voiced at my exit.

I was conscious of the eternal paradox which a woman's mind reflects when upon the heels of my malicious suggestion to Dicky I hurried into the kitchen and harried Katie into the hasty preparation of a tray containing his favorite breakfast dishes which I myself carried to the veranda. All the way from the kitchen, burdened with the heavy tray, I asked myself why it is that a woman can subject a man to stiletto thrusts of mental discomfort with no compunctions of conscience, while her sense of duty will not permit her to deprive him of his favorite dishes.

With the courtesy which is a routine with Dicky, he hurried to me as soon as he saw my burden and took the tray from me. But his gallantry did not extend to his speech, for as he set it down he said sneeringly:

"Martyr's crown adjusted comfortably, old dear?"

AWARD TO HIGH BIDDER TAKEN TO COURT

On the ground that the contract was not let to the lowest responsible bidder, Judge Frank P. Patterson is asked to set aside the action of the Baldwin Township School Board in awarding to A. C. Sleneamp of Brentwood a contract for the erection of a four-room school building on Six Mile Ferry Road.

The Dick Construction Company, which has built school houses and other public buildings in the vicinity, was the lowest bidder at $34,000 as against Sleneamp's $36,000. William Noll, Church avenue, Baldwin township, school board secretary, said there was nothing in the minutes, which he produced, to show Sleneamp was the lowest responsible bidder, although there was a record of a three to two vote in awarding the contract to him.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

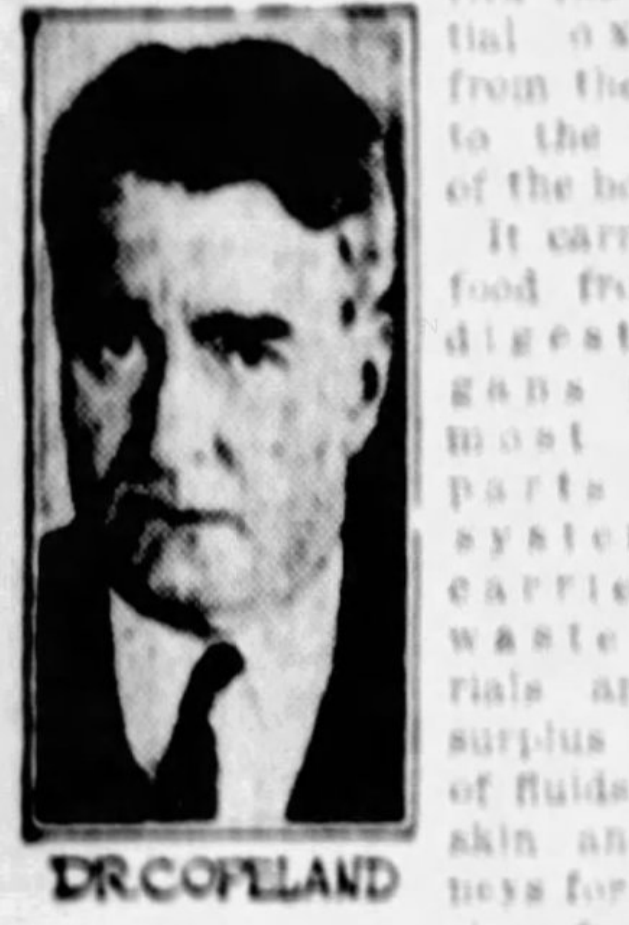
by Royal S. Copeland M.D.

U.S. Senator from New York

Build Up the Heart by Sensible Living

NOTHING can be more important to the welfare of a human being than the uninterrupted circulation of the blood.

What does the blood do? It carries the essential oxygen from the lungs to the tissues of the body.



DR. COPELAND

It carries the food from the digestive organs to the most remote parts of the system. It carries the waste materials and the surplus supply of fluids to the skin and kidneys for expulsion from the body. It carries the products of the ductless glands to the parts of the body where they can be utilized for our good. It has an important part in regulating the temperature of the body.

So important is the circulation of the blood that to stop it, even for the brief period of five minutes, would be fatal to the strongest man. It isn't enough merely to have the heart beat and to have the blood circulate through the blood vessels. The circulation must carry good blood, rich blood, blood containing all essentials and these essentials in their proper proportions.

We cannot consider the heart and circulation by themselves. We must consider them in connection with the manner of breathing, and the way we treat the digestive organs.

Without an abundance of oxygen, which we get by deep breathing, and a supply of food which is gained by proper eating, the circulation of the blood must fail to measure up to its possibilities. Indeed, it will fail in the proper performance of its assigned functions.

My mail is filled with letters asking me to recommend a "blood medicine." There is a popular idea that out of a box or a bottle may be taken some sort of "dope" which will enrich the blood. It is the common demand in the springtime. This is nonsense.

Good blood comes from good food, good water, plenty of exercise to keep the heart active, and deep breathing to supply great quantities of oxygen. In our foodstuffs is an important chemical or force, a mysterious agent which for want of a better name we call the vitamin. I frequently refer to it as the "soul of the food." It is associated with the mineral carrying part of fruits and vegetables, with the flesh of animals, the cream of milk and with the sunshine. It is essential to the production of good blood.

The food is not "oxidized" and made useful without the aid of oxygen. To have this we must open our lungs to pure air. We must avoid contaminated and vitiated atmospheres and must dwell where the air is clean and rich.

With a good heart and good circulation you may look forward to 80 years of efficient life. That should be your ambition and it will be realized if you order your life as you should.

Answers to Health Queries

A. A. N. Q.—I have aching, soreness about the heart, even the ribs feel sore. There is a feeling of weight, numbness and rapid beating. Am 54 years of age. What would you advise?

A.—Probably due to neuralgia and rheumatism. There is probably some infection in your system. Be sure that the intestinal tract has no bearing on your symptoms. Your doctor will advise you after examination.

W. M. Q.—Can diabetes in a young man of 20 be cured? Would high living be responsible for the trouble?

A.—This depends upon the extent of the trouble. If he follows his doctor's instructions as to diet, etc., he can be greatly relieved and possibly cured. Each case demands the personal attention of a physician. The cause is uncertain.

SEES THE BRIGHT SIDE OF LIFE NOW

Pittsburgh Lady Relates How Ten Herbs Banished Years of Suffering.

"Ten Herbs proved to be just the medicine my system needed, and I cannot praise it enough after what it has done for me," was the statement of Mrs. Robert Gamble, 712 Oakwood Street, Pittsburgh, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this popular medicine. "I do not worry any more, as life looks brighter," Mrs. Gamble continued.

MRS. ROBERT GAMBLE

"I had suffered with my stomach for years and got so bad that I had to be very careful what I ate. The lightest kind of food would cause gas and bloating. Food did not give me proper nourishment and my system finally became very much weakened and rundown. Every afternoon I had a gnawing feeling in my stomach and it was not relieved until I ate a couple of mouthfuls of food. Any little exertion would cause me to get short of breath. I lost weight and was on the verge of having a nervous breakdown. My nerves were so unstrung that the least noise would make me jump. I was always constipated, and my liver was very inactive. I had dizzy spells and sieges of terrible headaches that would last for several days. My complexion was sallow. I lost all ambition and sometimes felt that life was not worth living.

"I tried many kinds of medicines but never got satisfactory results until I started taking Ten Herbs. Your medicine put my stomach in such good condition that I can eat anything I want without distress. Gas does not form and I do not have shortness of breath. I sleep soundly, as my nerves are quiet. My bowels are regular and my liver is working properly. I have not had a bilious attack, dizzy spell or headache since I began using Ten Herbs. I arise in the morning feeling as though I had gained strength during the night. I have gained in every way and feel like a new woman. Friends remark about the change in me and I tell them that Ten Herbs did it and I gladly endorse your medicine to the public."

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

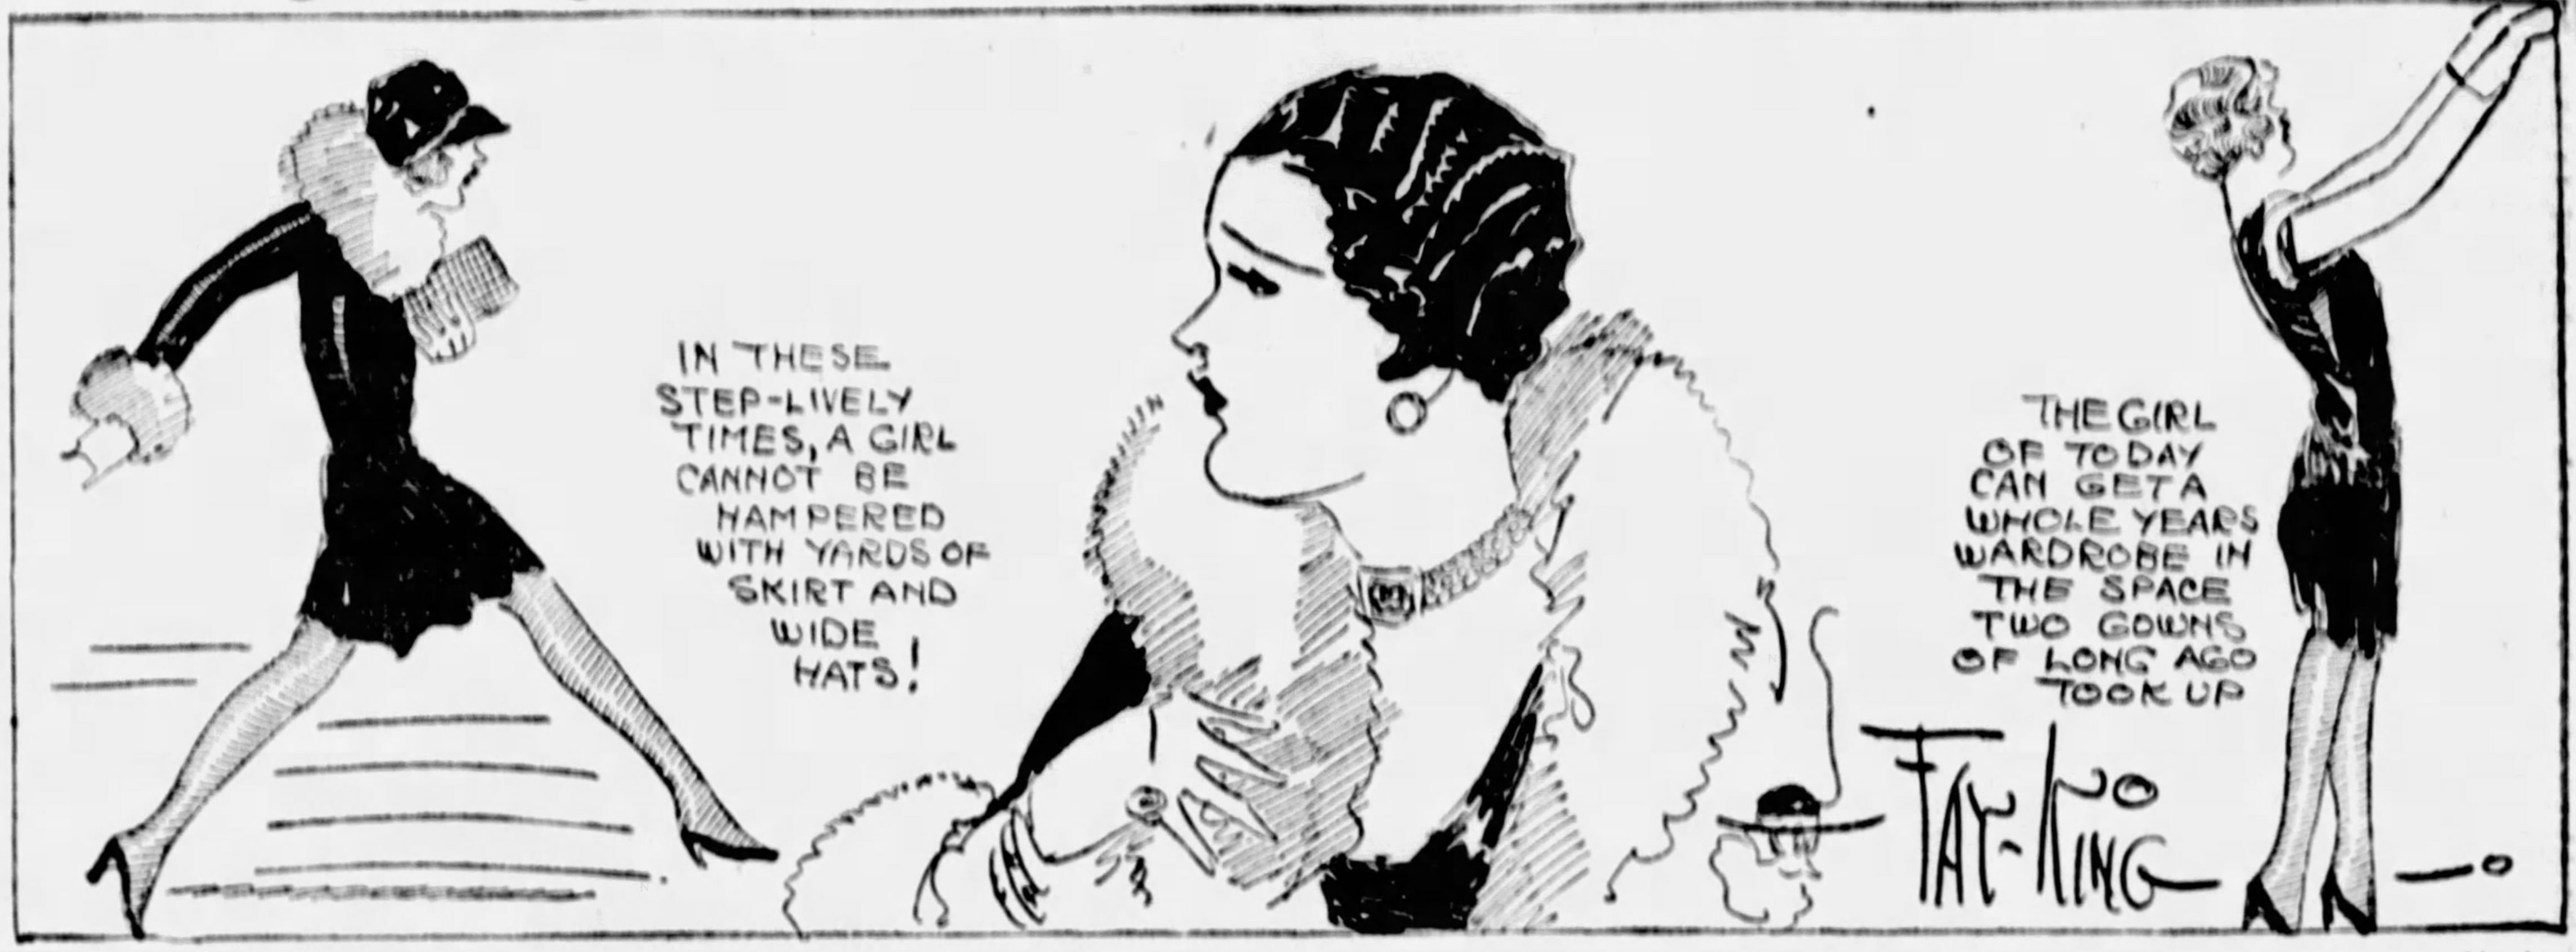
Fay King Tells Why Girls' Clothes Stay Scant



IN THESE STEP-LIVELY TIMES, A GIRL CANNOT BE HAMPERED WITH YARDS OF SKIRT AND WIDE HATS!
THE GIRL OF TODAY CAN GET A WHOLE YEARS WARDROBE IN THE SPACE TWO GOWNS OF LONG AGO TOOK UP
FAY-KING

By FAY KING.

NO MATTER how inclined the fashion designers, or even the women themselves may be for the return of ancient styles, I believe they will never come back again.

Haste, not taste, is what influences fashions these days. No woman could get about as she must in bundlesome dresses and large hats. Traffic rules now!

In the old days, when there was little else for a woman to do but sit around or stroll leisurely, dressing was the most important part of any event. Wide and roomy wardrobes were the thing.

But a woman has more on her mind than her hair and hat these days.

What with space at a minimum and at a premium, the less space and time one takes up the more welcome they are anywhere!

For climbing in and out of automobiles the short skirt is a necessity.

Dashing across streets to safety zones, making room for just one more on crowded cars and buses, all this has brought about the kind of clothes that women wear now, whether you like them or not!

This is an age of activity, not of pose. A woman may not be the lovely picture as she once was, but she is a better pal.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

MARRYING "DADDY"

WHEN a woman of forty marries a man young enough to be her son, she elects herself his banker, cash box and guardian angel. But when a girl of twenty marries a man old enough to be her father, she elects herself his health chart and clinical thermometer.

* * *

He may be handsome, brilliant and fascinating; but he has reached that point in life when he is more interested in his "symptoms" than in any woman's charms. Nothing really thrills him but his diet and his circulation!

HELEN ROWLAND

She need not flatter herself that "the red blood surges through his veins" at sight of her; for his blood pressure is either too high or too low to permit him to become "unduly excited." And he yearns for nothing so much as to tell her that his "blood count" shows his "hemoglobin" to be only sixty per cent.

* * *

His "heart action" is uncertain and irregular, and every step he climbs in her behalf will be counted against her. The very flush upon his cheek may be merely a little "temperature."

* * *

When he gazes dreamily into her eyes, he may be merely trying to remember when he took his last pill and whether it is the tonic or the pepsin that comes next.

His idea of an absorbing conversation is one which revolves around his "cardio-respiratory" reactions or his red and white corpuscles.

His "knee-kicks" are not what they used to be, and even his arm grips may be hampered by neuritis or rheumatism. Just sitting on his lap may cause him real anguish by interfering seriously with his circulation.

* * *

Worst of all, you never know whether he may be hardening his heart and his arteries against you—and you may find a "joker" in his will.

* * *

And while X-rays may show you what is going on in your husband's heart and liver, you will need no second sight to see what is going on in his mind. For the nearest thing to his heart is not YOU—but his HEALTH CHART!

In short, he has reached the Clinical Age—and he should marry only a woman of the Clinical Age, who would be willing to compare "symptoms" with him every morning at breakfast and count calories with him every evening at dinner. The Clinical Age is a delightful age, if you have somebody beside you who just loves dieting, revels in gland cures, and prefers bicarbonate of soda to champagne, and spinach to lobster.

* * *

But when the Clinical Age weds the Jazz Age, somebody gets out of step right in the middle of the wedding march—and after that, it's just a race for the divorce courts.

FOR THE LOVELORN

Broken-Hearted

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a reader of your column and find you give very good advice, and do hope you can give me some. I have known and kept company with a man for about six years and have learned to care for him and firmly believe he cares for me. Frequently he takes me to visit friends (a man and his wife). At first I did not thing anything about it, but since he has taken her out many times, I wonder if I should continue to visit his friends. I feel as people say I am being used for a blind. I spoke to him regarding her and he didn't call on me for months, but took others out to his friends, but they didn't go many times. What shall I do?

BROKEN HEARTED.

I am inclined to agree with your advisors that you are being used to cover up a too-close friendship between this man and his friend's wife. Try to forget him if you can. He is unworthy of your affection.

Wondering

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am in love with a certain boy who seems to care a good deal for me. Last week I was at a party in a distant town. Coming home from the party he asked to sit beside me. Now I would like to know how I could continue the friendship. I have seen him since and he acts very nice and as if he would like to call. What shall I do? Invite him to call or let him come on his own free will?

WONDERING.

He seems to like you, my dear, and it is your privilege to invite him to call, you know.

Two Lovesick Pals

DEAR MISS GALE:

We are two girls, 13 years of age, and have come to you for advice. Please, Miss Gale, help up and do not call us foolish. We pet, smoke and drink to a certain extent. We cannot see any harm in this, as our parents indulge in all three, and the boys we are engaged to think a girl is not a good sport unless she does all three. We are in love and want to be married in two or three years. Advise us and tell us if it would be right, as our parents approve.

TWO LOVE-SICK PALS.

And your parents approve. Little girls of 13 have thought themselves in love since time began, my dears, but they weren't. They couldn't be. They don't know what the word means. I can see some of my grown-up readers smiling with me at the thought of the little girls and boys they loved at that tender age, and at the woe that would have been theirs if they had been permitted to marry. In six or seven years you will begin to be old enough to know what you want in the man you marry. You are many years too young to have had the experience to judge that now.

Dick U.

DEAR MISS GALE:

This young lady who so cleverly described a "Man" is certainly a credit to the "Fair Sex." Take her tip, girls, and let these "Nit Wits" travel alone.

DICK U.

"It's so easy to soak clothes whiter —with this safe hard-water soap" says Mrs. F. Breitenstein, 4431 Penn Ave.

"THE Rinso way of washing is so easy!" says this woman, one of the many users of Rinso right in this locality who have written us.

"All I have to do is soak the clothes overnight in the thick, safe Rinso suds, rinse thoroughly in the morning, and they're ready to be hung out—without any hard rubbing. You don't even have to boil! Yet they always turn out even whiter than if they'd been boiled for hours.

"Rinso is just right for our water. It goes much farther than other soaps and no softener is needed. That's why I use it for all my housework such as dishes, floors, sinks and woodwork!"

The secret is in the suds!

Rinso's suds are different—thick, creamy and lasting even in the hardest water. Dirt, grease, grime and stains soak right out—with no hard rubbing.

Rinso asks no help of bar soaps, chips, powders or softeners. Alone it washes clothes whiter. Why, even boiling isn't necessary; clothes come from the washer or tub so sweet and gleaming!

This way saves the clothes—Rinso contains nothing to harm your finest cottons or linens. Then, too—clothes aren't scrubbed threadbare. The grimiest edges come snowy with little or no rubbing. Saves the hands, too; they are in hot suds so little.

You get your full money's worth when you buy Rinso, the granulated hard-water soap—it's so compact. Just feel how weighty the package is. For best results follow the easy directions.

Washing machine makers endorse it

Rinso is the ideal washing machine soap. Try it and see for yourself why 32,000 demonstrators of washers use this hard-water soap. See why the makers of 32 leading washing machines highly endorse it.

close, and listen, and in course of time he'd be down on his knees when I was, and making the same sounds as well as he could. Many a Paternoster he's sent up. A fine feller, Renchoro. His father was chief over a bit of Africa the size of all Britain. The great Onlooker must have had a quiet laff at the sight of us two boys.

"But it takes a pretty strong prayer to shut out matricide. Not but what they'd have to get permission from the priests at the Josh House to do away with 'em. Then they'd gather a few friends together and chuck somebody's old mother or granny into the river, at the age when in Lancashire she'd be just right for a shawl and a good cup o' tea.

Well-Fed Crocodiles

"You couldn't do anything any more than you could stop a funeral in Lancashire. Seemed like you could neither run away nor shut your eyes . . . You just had to shiver and try not to blubber in front of 'em. Some of the old women would battle out and try swimming, but 'twas never for long.

"The crocs in those rivers who take up a stand near a village are too lazy to attack a bather or the woman coming for water. They're too well provided. Sometimes you'd even see a floating body. If 'twere a woman she'd be face downward. 'The woman's modest' they say amongst the natives, meaning that in death she takes up a modest attitude. A man'll always float face up, as if he'd not turn his face on death.

"I hope I've not been too discursive on the great subject of this so-called expansion. It doesn't do to say too much. But if it's truth you're wanting I can tell you the French have never learned to spell the word. Expansion! The biggest stumbling-block to trade known to civilized man. The most rapacious nation, consistent with inactivity, the world has ever known. Nothing more than funguses sucking life from a healthy tree. 'Unstable as water, thy name shall not excel.' That's them. I like a little allegorical speech now and then. Used to excess, 'twill lose its effect.

"That Pioneer I'm writing about was Livingstone's old paddle steamer. Fine boat, with a stand of arms and plenty of brass fittings. Fancy sort of cabin. Aye, when you're apt at dispensing hot air in the drawing room meetings of Piccadilly you'll get supplied with luxuries for travel. Why, Livingstone killed more men than ever I did, with all me rubber and ivories.

"Human life was nothing where the Bible had to go. Ladies in Hyde Park praying for 'im and handing on the wherewithal while we traders had to struggle to open up a country in decency. When I go out to trade I go out with a gun and some Manchester cottons, not with a Bible. He sure was fortune's favorite.

"I must soon be making a move on . . . Did I tell you 'twas Renchoro that showed me where George T—— was buried? Aye, he knew where George T——'s slaves had settled and he got T——'s own old boy to come and point it out. Nina's father.

"I've told you about Nina T——, goddess to the Isorga? Aye. It sure gave me a strange feeling to see those eyes looking out from a great mask at me. I was a lad then. Eighteen, I might 'a' been.

"Ma'am, there's some things it's difficult to capture with a word. I should say her eyes were kind but piercing. Aye. Kind but piercing."

VERMILION, S. D., April 18.—(AP.)—The University of South Dakota will meet the United States Military Academy football team at West Point, November 2, 1929, Athletic Director Montgomery has announced. A Northwest college team, Carleton of Northfield, Minn., also will oppose the West Pointers November 17 of this year.

Wills, Hagen Head Squad

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP.)—Luminaries of the golf and tennis worlds depart today on the Aquitania for vigorous campaigns in Europe.

Four of America's best professional golfers will attempt to bring back for the seventh time since 1921 the coveted British open championship. Leading the pack is Walter Hagen, twice winner of the title. With him are Wild Bill Melhorn, Tommy Armour and Gene Sarazen.

Only a short time ago Sarazen announced he would not join the invasion of England this year, as it would necessitate reshafting his clubs to comply with the royal and ancient rules. But the stocky player has had the best winter season since he reached the heights in 1922 and 1923 and his recent low scores have caused him to change his mind.

On the same ship with the golfing contingent will be Miss Helen Wills, national women's tennis champion, and Miss Penelope Anderson of Richmond, Va., who is to play in team matches with the Berkeley girl.

Helen will take part in the French championships, in the Wightman cup matches in England and in the British women's singles and doubles championships at Wimbledon in which she will defend the title she won there last year.

In a practice match at the West Side tennis club yesterday Helen defeated Elmer Griffin 5-8, 6-4.

SANDLOT GOSSIP

By TOM BIRKS

THE bitter cold weather experienced over the week-end again delayed sandlot managers from staging workouts for their charges and if this regular week-end cold snap still stays with us the managers concerned will find themselves with opening day around and no line on the personnel of their outfits.

In the makeup of sandlot teams very few managers are able to call upon the players that were on the club the previous season, and the acquisition of new talent makes it imperative that this material must be looked over before the season opens.

Practically all of the leagues in this county will furnish a close race. Take the county loop for instance if a club loses a couple of games in the first half of the season it can nearly be counted out as a half-way champion. Therefore, with that in mind, managers cannot afford to take a chance on players they know nothing about. Players asking for a tryout with teams make all kinds of wild statements regarding their ability, and managers become used to that stuff, and usually take a "you have to show me" attitude.

Rumor states that Andy Robinson, star pitcher of the Washington Heights Traders of last season, will be found on the firing line for St. Johns in the City League battles this season. Andy was one of the best bets Jerry Saunier had last season and won plenty of games for the Traders. If it is true that Bill McGrady has signed up the Lawrenceville speed merchant should win plenty of games.

Jones, Cub Mound Star, Willed Huge Estate

CHICAGO, April 18.—(AP.)—Percy Lee Jones, pitcher for the Chicago Cubs, came here for the opening home game today, $500,000 richer. He has just inherited a half million-dollar estate, willed him by a grandmother, who died recently in Georgia.

He kept his good fortune secret from his teammates until he left St. Louis last night for Chicago.

WOLFE TO GET EASTERDAY'S POSITION

WAYNESBURG, Pa., April 18.—Frank N. Wolfe, former Penn State athlete and for the past five years coach at Williamson, W. Va., High School, will succeed Dr. Roy A. Easterday as director of athletics at Waynesburg College, it was learned here today.

Although college athletic authorities would not confirm the report, neither would they deny its authenticity. Additional credence is given to the report as Wolfe was in Waynesburg over the week-end, and the fact that he has already signified his intention of resigning his post at Williamson at the end of the present year. It is known that Wolfe has been anxious to land the job left vacant by Easterday's resignation as he has several local connections.

Wolfe coached here in 1921 and 1922 when he obtained fair success with but slight material, and ever since there has been a demand on the part of several followers of the school that the former Penn State star be given another trial at the local job.

GRAYS BEAT STOGIES

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., April 18.—The Homestead Grays of Pittsburgh and the Wheeling Middle Atlantic League club staged an interesting 5-to-2 game here yesterday, with the Grays capturing the decision.

283 to Run in Boston Marathon Tomorrow

BOSTON, April 18.—(AP.)—There are 283 runners entered today for the thirty-second running tomorrow of the Boston Marathon, the final Olympic tryout at this distance, but in the opinion of Tom Kanaly, athletic manager of the Boston Athletic Association, not more than an even dozen need to be reckoned with.

Kanaly made that prediction in full cognizance of the fact that as many times as not the historic jaunt has been carried off by a total dark horse and there are more dark horses ready for tomorrow's race than ever before.

The entry list today far exceeds any previous record. In point of caliber it probably has never been equalled. The leading favorite is the incomparable Clarence De Mar, Melrose printer and Sunday school teacher, who despite his 39 years, is favored to capture the event for the sixth time.

De Mar was last year's winner and six years ago he set the world's record for the course by making it in two hours, 18 minutes and 10 seconds. He made it three in a row after coming back 11 years after he first tasted victory.

Most of the other 11 who Kanaly believes have a chance are veterans of the long grind. In the order in which he puts them, they are, Frank Zuna, Newark, N. J.; William Kennedy, Portchester, N. Y.; Albert Michelson, Portchester; Edouard Fabre, Montreal; Harvey Frick, New York City; William Reynolds, Galt, Ont.; Charles Morton, Hamilton, Ont.; Tom Bury, Lynn; James Henigan, Dorchester; Herbert Speer, Pittsburgh; Carl Linder, Quincy.

Tigers Commit 19 Errors in 7 Games

NEW YORK, April 18.—Nineteen errors in the first seven games.

The figures tell the story of the collapse of the Detroit Tigers, one of the most promising ball clubs in the American League at the start of the 1928 season.

A shake-up which will put in the shade the corrective measures undertaken by a number of other major league managers this year, is promised by George Moriarty, fighting, "hard-boiled" manager of the Tigers.

Already "Fat" Fothergill, veteran outfielder, and one-time batting king, has been benched by Moriarty, but "Fat's" offense was weak hitting rather than poor fielding. Other regulars are due to follow Fothergill to the bench as fast as their manager can arrange replacements.

PIRATES PRACTICE FOR OPENER

SISLER MAY BECOME OUTFIELDER

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

New Opening-Day Attendance Record Has Been Set in Every One of the Last Five Years --Unfavorable Weather Causing Many Postponements in Big Ball Leagues—Vic Aldridge Reported Weakening in His Holdout.

IF the opening-day dope of the last five years holds good again when the Pirates and Cardinals meet in Pittsburgh's 1928 lid-lifter at Forbes Field tomorrow afternoon, we may expect the gathering of fans to be the largest that ever attended an inaugural baseball game in this city.

Barney Dreyfuss

For in each succeeding year in the last five campaigns a new record for opening-day attendance at Barney Dreyfuss' stadium has been established.

STARTING in 1923, the record-smashing has been continued annually ever since. In 1923, the largest crowd that ever saw a curtain-raiser here was registered, when 28,000 persons were present. In 1924, the mark was boosted to 28,210. In 1925 it soared to 30,000. In 1926 the record went higher than ever with a total of 31,545 fans present, and last year the official attendance on the first day of the home season was 33,439, the largest gathering that ever was present at an opening game here.

That makes five straight years in which the record was broken, so if the habit still sticks an attendance of more than 33,349 will be clicked off by the turnstiles tomorrow afternoon.

JUST as the Pirates were beginning to get going, the weather man stepped in and halted them yesterday in Cincinnati, and as today is an open date this means two successive idle days for the Bucs, and three out of five in a row, except for the stiff practice drill ordered by Manager Bush for today at Forbes Field. It looks like a tough spring all around for the old pastime. Out of 28 games scheduled up to today in the National League, eight have been postponed, and out of 27 scheduled in the American, six have been postponed and two others had to be called on account of rain in the fifth and sixth innings with the score tied.

WITH Pete Donohue conferring with Cincinnati club officials and Urban Shocker working out with the Cardinals, probably in preparation for joining the Yankees, ex-Pirate Vic Aldridge would seem like to be the last of the holdouts. But even Aldridge is getting ready to come in, according to one report to New York which says that in a telegram sent to a newspaper man there, the Hoosier schoolmaster appears to be weakening.

Vic Aldridge

"I think that Aldridge is weakening and getting ready to report," said Secretary Jim Tierney of the Giants. "Aldridge has been stubborn and unreasonable and I do not doubt that he has seen his error and wants us to ask him in. Well, if he wants to come in he knows how to go about it."

IT is said that the New York club offered Aldridge $15,000 for the season, but that he demands $16,500.

If Vic does not report to the Giants within 10 days after the opening of the season last Wednesday he will be placed on the ineligible list on the rules and will have to deal with Commissioner Landis to be restored to good standing before he can pitch for New York or any other club in organized ball.

THEY'RE manufacturing double-headers in the major leagues already without having any good excuse or reason for doing so. The Pittsburgh club has been notified from league headquarters that the St. Louis club has decided last Friday's postponed game must be played off as part of a bargain bill in the Mound City on Sunday, July 1. In view of the fact that both Monday and Tuesday, July 2 and 3, are open for both dates, there would appear to be no call for this. There is supposed to be a clause in the league constitution forbidding double headers if open dates are available for the playing off of postponed games, but evidently it has been forgotten like a lot of other rules.

NOT since Pete Donohue of Cincinnati beat the Phillies in 20 of the first 22 games he pitched against them, has any hurler in the majors made such a remarkable record against one club as Alphonse Thomas, former Baltimore hurler, now with the White Sox, has made against the St. Louis Americans.

Pete Donohue

Digging into his statistics, Julius Levin finds that although the season of 1927 was Thomas' first in the major leagues, the former Oriole star faced the Browns seven times last year and emerged with seven straight victories.

SEVERAL years ago, Artie Nehf, then a southpaw with the New York Giants, scored an even dozen victories over the Pittsburgh Pirates before they managed to squeeze out a decision over him. Thomas, should he continue his present pace, stands a good chance to equal or better this mark at the expense of the Browns. Thomas' record against the Browns since donning the White Sox regalia follows:

Date.	Score.	Opponent.

McGraw's Handy Andy

SPEARING A HIGH ONE AT POLO GROUNDS

FIND OF THE YEAR

In Andy Cohen, in whom he had sufficient confidence to release Rogers Hornsby, John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, finally has realized his dream of one day having a great Jewish player who would draw the crowds at the gate. Cohen has come through in fiction hero style in the early games of the season and is the idol of New York fandom and is certain to be a great magnet all around the National League circuit. His hitting has been even more sensational than his fielding.

Andy isn't the only Cohen in baseball. His brother, Sid, is a pitcher for the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast League and gives promise of following Andy up to the majors. Cohen is no overnight sensation in the athletic world. He starred in high school and later in college, playing baseball and football for Alabama. He was farmed out by the Giants to Buffalo of the International League last year and made good with a bang for the Class AAA club.

GEORGE WILL SHIFT; DODGERS PROTEST

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(INS.)—George Sisler, a few years ago the leading first baseman of the American League, may become an outfielder.

Manager Bucky Harris is considering using the former college crack regularly in the outfield because Joe Judge is going so well at first base. When Sisler was purchased during the winter Harris counted on Judge slipping, but the veteran Joe refuses to slip. He is thumping the ball harder than any of the Senators, and because of this Sisler has been watching games from the bench. However, Harris wants to utilize

The VARSITY COLUMN

by Jess M. Carver

THE death of Dr. Thomas Kendrick, beloved of all Pitt men, which occurred with tragic suddenness Monday, is being mourned on the Pitt campus among Pitt men, wherever they may gather today. A valued member of the athletic council and physician to the football team, Dr. Kendrick wielded a strong and fine influence in Pitt circles.

THE annual inter-fraternity track and field championships at Carnegie Tech will be run off this afternoon in the Tartan Bowl. This is an event that usually draws a good sized and fairly classy entry list.

The most important feature of the meet is seen in the fact that it affords Coach Guy Halferty a first opportunity to see his varsity men in competition.

SPEAKING of SPORTS

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

TEDDY WELCH of McKeesport suffered a technical knockout defeat by Freddie Fitzgerald in the seventh round of a bout at Youngstown last Saturday night, his seconds tossing in the towel, but he was sufficiently recovered to come back and fight 10 rounds with Steve O'Malley at Washington, Pa., two nights later.

How come?

Well, it seems Teddy ate a heavy evening meal in Youngstown and neglected to eliminate the mashed potatoes. When Fitzgerald shifted his attack to the midsection, Teddy became nothing less than sick, and —you know how it is! One simply cannot fight on when mashed po-

BUCCANEERS WARM UP AT FORBES FIELD

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

THE Pittsburgh Pirates, back home from their jaunt to the Paso Robles training camp and consequent opening games in the Middle West, were sent through a brisk workout at Forbes Field this afternoon in preparation for the opening home game of the season tomorrow. They were scheduled to drill this morning, but this was postponed because of the frosty condition of Forbes Field.

FANS ENTHUSED

Pittsburgh, especially the Oakland district, was alive with baseball excitement this morning. With the Pirates back at Forbes Field and the home opener only one day away, the feverish fans are all aglow in anticipation of the game that marks the beginning of the picnic season for countless thousands.

The long-awaited occasion was given added zip by the appearance in the city of the National League champions, who arrived late last night ahead of their traveling schedule. The Bushwhackers hus-

THE Pirates will be in town only four days on this gladsome occasion. After completing the three games with the Redbirds, the Buccos will set sail for Chicago, where they will run off what should be an interesting series with the Cubs. Cincinnati will be the attraition at Forbes Field for the remaining three days of next week.

THE clever Western tier teams will continue to battle each other for two weeks. Meantime, the Giants, the only recognized flag contenders of the East, will be mixing with the comparatively "soft" clubs of the seaboard. This procedure has been quite the vogue for a number of years, and as a rule the Polo Grounders have taken advantage of the early part of the schedule. Nevertheless, the laws of compensation appear to assert themselves in the general scheme, for the Giants, after their repeated mixups with the sectional clubs, generally find the journey tough when they stack up against the boys from this side of the Alleghenies.

Johnny Morrison Released to Kansas City

Johnny Morrison, veteran pitcher, has been released outright to the Kansas City club of the American Association, it was announced at the offices of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Morrison was placed on the ineligible list by the Pirate management last summer, but was reinstated this spring and sent to the Montreal club of the International League. However, Morrison could not come to terms with the Montreal club and was sent back to the Pirates. Johnny has come to terms with the Kansas City club, it is understood here.

OLDTIMER DEAD

COFFEYVILLE, Kan., April 18.—(AP.)—Ed McMason, 65, who caught for Brooklyn back in the days when Billy Sunday, the evangelist, played for the Chicago White Sox, is dead here.

PIN PRIZE TOTAL OF $2,512 READY

SENDING the pins in all directions, an dwith only a single game of 200 or better as an aid, the Arcade bowling team of Sharpsburg pulled into first place in the five-men event of the American Duckpin Congress bowling tournament on the Haus alleys, North Side, last night, with a fine score of 2,499. This score topped the previous high mark of the Wilkinsburg Casino bowlers by 41 pins.

In keeping with the fairly high scores of the night, the Coca Colas of McKeesport rolled a 2,336 and then the Recreation five of Butler turned in a 2,226.

In the doubles, L. Bockey and J. Kovacik rolled the highest score of the night, a 991, which places them fairly high among the leaders. E. Muse and W. Yocham bowled 961 and Pacquet and L. Koffler a 965. Anderson and Stanton rolled 954 and A. Labenz and T. Moore 960.

The boys found the singles high marks hard to approach, only five scores above 500 being turned in during the evening. Stanton led with a 551. Brilt was second with 524 and Bergman third with 514. Yocham rolled 506 and Paquet 505.

The combination of Beck and Striley in the women's doubles competition finished with a fairly high score, a 744. Maier and Augustine rolled 711. Kain and Ludwig turned in 769.

In the singles, none of the fair bowlers could get above 400. M. Augustine was high with 393 and M. Striley second with 383.

Tournament officials have announced that the prize list will total $2,512.10, the biggest amount ever awarded in any bowling tournament staged in the Pittsburgh district.

Cohen and Levy Separate As Giants

NEW YORK, April 18.—(INS.)—The fortunes of baseball have separated Jake Levy and Andy Cohen, the Damon and Pythias of the New York Giants.

Jake and Andy were both pals and rivals. Jake is a pitcher and Andy a second baseman, but each was anxious to fill the bill as the Jewish diamond star whom John McGraw sought for years.

Cohen has made such a hit here as a drawing card and player that Jake got the gate. He has been sent to the Hartford, Conn., club in the Eastern League.

Pirates Arrive Home

tied to a train bound for home when the last game of the series at Cincinnati was called off on account of rain.

Chauff Asten, trainer of the Buccos, sounded a clarion call for Manager Donie Bush before the team reached Pittsburgh.

"Everybody in the clubhouse at 11 Wednesday, and believe me, fellows, he don't mean maybe," shouted Chauff as he gave Bush's instructions to his men.

Coincident with the call for today's practice session, Donie stated that morning sessions would be held daily until further notice. There will be no letup in the schedule on the occasion of the home opener tomorrow, so eager is Bush to run his athletes through the various perfecting sprouts.

HILL IMPROVED

The boss of the Buccos was still undecided this morning as to the exact identity of his pitcher for the Forbes Field inaugural. Either Carmen Hill or John Miljus will fade the classy Cardinals, but Donie said he would not know which of the two would get the Fogartey Knoll passport until the workout of this afternoon.

The arrow seems to point in the direction of Carmen of Corry at this writing. Hill was unable to work in the jumpoff series in St. Louis owing to a lame back, but he did a consummate job of relief work in Cincinnati as the Bushwhackers treated themselves to their first piece of victory pie. Carmen was so impressive on that occasion that Bush may ask him to fling the first clash of the year in the Oakland Orchard.

Miljus and Remy Kremer are both available. The latter was carded to work against the Reds yesterday, but the fact that he was not called upon to toil does not mean that he will be given the preference over the two hurlers Bush had already selected for the big home date. Kremer showed in St. Louis that he was not himself. A few more days of preparation should be beneficial to Frenchy in view of his general condition.

Fred Frankhouse, Texas League righthander, who won five in a row for the Redbirds after joining them last summer, is expected to be the slab enemy of the Pirates on the big occasion. Little Bill Sherdel, he of the left-hand slants, is another pitching possibility for the initial clash here.

TO RAISE PENNANT

Additional flavor will be given the clash tomorrow afternoon by reason of the flag-raising festivities. The Pirates and Cardinals will march to the flagpole where the pennant emblematic of National League supremacy and won by the 1927 Pirates, will be unfurled.

The various sidelights together with the fact that Wilkinsburg Bill McKechnie will be in our midst with one of the best clubs in the country, assures a banner baseball day in the event of good weather. If the sun shines on the morrow the spacious stands are likely to be well filled. It would indeed be hard to find two finer baseball teams to show on any occasion.

The Redbirds are slated to play in Dayton today. The Central League club of the Ohio city is one of many teams owned and directed by the St. Louis officials. After the exhibition contest is finished the Cards will hustle onward to Pittsburgh, it being due to arrive here late tonight.

Burleigh Grimes was given permission to go to his Minerva home from Cincinnati, but Grimes will be in town tomorrow morning all set for more action.

SPEAKING of SPORTS

by HARRY KECK

tatoes refused to stand for any further pulverizing.

ONE of the most idiotic things in the world of sports, aside, of course, from its money-making possibilities, is the system employed in the National Professional Hockey League to determine its champion. As it works out, the league is divided into two sections, the American and Canadian, which play through a long schedule of games. At the end of the season, the first three teams in each division play off to decide the sectional champion and then the two sectional champions get together and play a best-out-of-five-games series to decide which team really is champion, if any.

In the sectional playoffs, the team finishing first in the regular race draws a bye and stands out while the teams finishing second and third meet over a two-game stretch, with total goals counting. The survivor of this battling meets the leader in two more games and then the intersectional brawling begins. This year's Canadian vs. American playoffs were strung out over the full limit of five games, making 13 games in all among six teams after the finish of the regular season before the fans had any idea of what was what and who was who. When all the shooting was over and done with, the two teams that had finished second in each section were fighting it out in the finals, while the two sectional leaders were also-rans.

IN OTHER words, the complete season's play didn't mean a thing, and the post-season hocus-pocus of 13 games, played before big crowds that paid enormous sums for the "championship" competition, was the only thing that counted. Pittsburgh, which finished third in the American group, played in the sectional series, but its titular games were staged in New York, and when time arrived for the grand final blowoff of five games, in which New York emerged on top, all the games were played in Montreal, on the Maroons' ice.

Les Canadiens of Montreal and the Boston Bruins were the best teams in the league and led their groups, but were eliminated in the peculiar playoffs.

Imagine baseball or any other sport jockeying around so long and going so far out of its way to sustain interest and get the gelt! It's a wonder the hockey fans don't take a tumble to themselves and demand straight seasons with only the sectional winners meeting in the playoffs.

IF YOU saw the Jack Zivic-Jack Katkish fight at Motor Square Square Garden last Monday night you'll fall off your chair to learn Katkish's explanation of his sorry showing. Called before Boxing Commissioner Havey J. Boyle yesterday and asked to give an accounting, he attributed his amateurish exhibition to OVERCONFIDENCE!

"I never felt more confident before a fight that I would win," Katkish declared. "Then, when I got in the ring, I couldn't get going. I can't explain it."

Katty was deeply chagrined over his failure to live up to the hopes of his rooters, but that's his story. Take it or leave it. While the onlookers almost to a man figured he fizzled because he lacked confidence in himself, he says the way for his downfall was paved by—OVERCONFIDENCE!

Race Opens Today In International

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP.)—Today the eight most evenly matched clubs in modern International League history will start off on a 168-game baseball race that should break all records for attendance.

Half a dozen managers believe they have a chance at the pennant, and no one of the eight clubs is so weak that it does not entertain hope of getting up around the top.

The Buffalo Bisons, champions of 1927, open at Baltimore. Jack Dunn will send his great right-hander, George Earnshaw, to the mound to stop the champions in the first game.

The much-heralded Newark club will start with Toronto as its guest. Walter Johnson is not yet able to be about, and George McBride will handle the Bears.

ROBINS PROTEST GAME

NEW YORK, April 18.—(INS.)—The "glue ball" is the latest freak pitching delivery to worry National League batsmen.

Alleging that Charley Robertson doctored balls with glue smeared on his glove, thereby causing them to "sail" in an eccentric manner, Manager Wilbert Robinson of Brooklyn has sent a telegram to President John A. Heydler of the National League protesting Boston's 3-to-2 victory over Brooklyn on Monday. Umpire Charley Moran ordered Robertson to discard the glove at the time, but Uncle Wilbert contends that the pitcher also should have been expelled from the game.

NOTES of the BOXERS

JACK ZIVIC has delayed his departure for Chicago, where he is scheduled to box Jack McCarthy next Sunday night, until tomorrow night, while he is nursing a sore toe, injured when he stubbed it. He is still sore over being introduced at Motor Square Garden last Monday night as hailing from New York. "Certainly I live in New York now," he said. "I've got to. My business demands it. But my folks are here and I own property here and I intend to come back here when I quit fighting. Everywhere I box I'm billed as hailing from Pittsburgh."

Frank Monroe, Fair Haven middleweight, is requested to call Fairfax 5162.

Pete Latzo and Tony Marullo meet in New York next Monday night in a bout postponed from several weeks ago.

Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, and Mike Dempsey will headline an open air show at Tamaqua, Pa., May 14. Dundee's title will not be at stake.

Frankie Porto, of McKeesport, and Mickey Hart, of New Kensington, will appear in the eight-round main bout of a boxing show at Nicholson Field, Wellsville, O., May 14. Porto also is booked with Ken Hargraves for the semi-final to the California Joe Gans-Frankie Gordini bout at McKeesport tomorrow night.

Eight bouts make up an amateur boxing card at the P. A. A. Saturday night. It will be the last show of the season there.

How Common People Regard the Wall Street Ongoings.

By B. C. FORBES

OVERHEARD in the New York subway:

"Looks as if the only place to make easy money is in Wall Street."

"It sure does."

"What do they do for the millions they take from the people?"

"Nothing but skin small stockholders that don't know the game."

"Parasites I call them."

"You're right; parasites and gamblers that will knock stocks down just as quick as they have sent them up, when it looks as if the money can be made by sending stocks down."

"It sure is a great game. It makes the rest of us who have to work for a living feel pikers."

FROM other comments and communications received, it is clear that what has been happening in Wall Street is attracting attention as never before. The stock market's ongoings are being described on the front pages in newspapers throughout the length and breadth of the land. Such a statement, for instance, the one that stocks on the New York Stock Exchange "increased in market value" something like $2,500,000,000 last month, staggers the imagination of ordinary folks and causes them to ask questions.

The feeling apparently is widespread that enormous fortunes are being made by "gamblers" who do not, in the eyes of the public, do any real work or create any new wealth.

ANOTHER complaint incited—no matter whether well-based or not—is that the workers for the companies whose stocks have become so tremendously more valuable have not received any share of the enormous amount of money which, it is reasoned, the companies must have been making in order to make their shares worth so much more money. Indeed, the complaint sometimes is voiced that it is because the workers do not get a fair share of what they create that stocks have been able to pay higher dividends and make fortunes for the stockholders and those who speculate in them.

NOW, all this probably will not cause the millionaire stock manipulators to pause for one moment to devote a little thought to it. They regard themselves as engaged in thoroughly legitimate activities.

"Am I not helping to increase the prosperity of the country?" I can hear one of them ask. "I am helping to build up, not to tear down. I use my time and my knowledge to analyze this, that and the next corporation, and then, if I see that its securities are worth more than they are selling for, I do my best to lift them nearer their proper price. This increases the market value of the holdings of every stockholder, and makes them that much richer. When I reason things out right, of course I make money. But I take all the risk, and surely I'm entitled to be well paid when I'm right—for I lose money quickly enough when I happen to be wrong. The nation wouldn't prosper without a first-class market for its billions of dollars of securities, a market where they can be sold at any moment of the day. And I'm contributing my bit to supplying the nation with this kind of a first-class market."

NO person familiar with even the most elementary economics questions the essential need for a broad market for securities. Our whole scheme of life would be unconscionably crippled were the stock market to be done away with—in fact, we simply couldn't function without it or something to fulfill its functions.

Not only so, but professional speculators have very distinct uses. Even the usually-condemned bears perform very necessary services by acting as a brake when Wall street recklessly exceeds the speed limit—although for quite some time the brakes have not been particularly effective.

And, as a matter of cold fact, 9 out of every 10 of the reckless speculators end up heavy losers.

HAVING said that much, the fact remains that the recent wild ongoings in Wall street are regrettable and deplorable from every point of view. Citizens in every part of the land are aroused into voicing sentiments similar to those overheard in the subway. The effect upon workers also is distinctly bad. The vitality necessary machinery set up in Wall street to be used is being abused; when the day of reckoning comes, as come it will, Wall street will incur afresh the condemnation of millions and millions of citizens and voters throughout the country.

THE sooner sanity and moderation are restored, the better will it be for America.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, April 18.—An opening advance on unfavorable crop advices attracted a good deal of realizing in the cotton market today, which was followed by reactions. After showing net gains of 8 to 13 points, active months sold 6 to 16 points net lower, but nervousness over the new crop start brought in some buying on the decline.

The mid-afternoon market was steady, within a point or two either way of yesterday's closing quotations.

The market eased later. The failure of the bullish view of the weekly weather report to create a more general or aggressive demand appeared to be disappointing to early buyers or other holders of contracts, and there was considerable liquidation. The selling was not active, but prices worked gradually lower, May declining to 19.80c and October to 19.50c, or about 7 to 10 points below yesterday's closing quotations. The volume of business then tapered off and the market at midday was dull at rallies of 3 or 4 points from the lowest.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP.)—There was no change in the raw sugar market early today, but the undertone was a little steadier. Sales were confirmed of 25,000 bags of Cuban as of late yesterday at 4.40c and today 14,000 bags Porto Rican sold at 4.36, but there appeared to be no further offerings at the latter price, with holders generally asking 4.40c.

Influenced by the steadier tone in the spot market, raw sugar futures opened unchanged to 2 points higher on covering and some buying by houses with trade and Cuban connections. Offerings were light and the market continued firm until midday, when all deliveries showed net gains of 3 points. The volume of business, however, was not large, and operators were inclined to limit operations and await developments.

In refined sugar, fair withdrawals were reported on old contracts, but new business was light and supplied mostly through second hands. Prices were unchanged.

REBOUND SENDS STOCKS KITING WITH RADIO

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP.)—Stock prices displayed a complete reversal of form in today's market, selling down sharply in the morning and then rallying briskly following a 10-point jump in Radio.

Early selling was in further reflection of tightening margin requirements and fears of an early increase in rediscount rates. Prices of many issues were carried down 1 to 4 points, but good support soon made its appearance and the market headed upward again by early afternoon. Radio rallied from 162¼ to 172.

The day's news was mixed in character. Freight-car loadings in the first week of April showed a sharp drop below those of the corresponding weeks of 1927 and 1926. Steel trade reviews reported that output was being maintained at a high rate, with prices holding steady. Oil production fell off slightly, which was regarded as bullish in view of the recent heavy over-production of that commodity.

One of the most interesting developments of the day was the renewal of gold exports to Great Britain, a shipment of $1,500,000 being reported, the first since March 22. Call money appeared to be in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 5 per cent, but prime commercial paper rates were slightly firmer.

Afternoon buying operations centered in a rather wide assortment of amusement, food, tobacco and public utility shares. Paramount Famous Lasky was run up 4 points to 126, National Tea soared 11 points to 222 and Manhattan Modified Guaranteed, U. S. Realty and Lorillard advanced to 61⅛, 87⅛ and 46⅛, respectively, all new high records. General Electric rallied from 164⅝ to 168 and General Motors from 188⅞ to 191⅛.

He prevailed upon his two sons, John and Frank Benoski, and Robert Nimmo and Dwight Drummond, to surrender.

Seminole Curb Extended.

Seminole operators have voted to extend drilling restrictions in the Little River area from May 15 to June 15, and other areas outside of Seminole from May 1 to June 1, except for drilling of five test wells, due to short-term leases. A plan for curtailing and restrictive proration of production in other Kansas and Oklahoma oil fields will be submitted to a meeting of operators of the Mid-Continent petroleum area at Tulsa, Okla., Saturday, the executive committee of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association announced. The meeting will be asked to ratify an oil conservation plan adopted April 11 by the executive committee. It asks that all producers in the two states postpone the drilling of all new wells, pending development of an improved market.

Refinery Runs Increasing.

Sharply increased crude oil runs by refiners in Mid-Continent section is a new factor recently injected into the whole gasoline price structure. The development has not gone far enough to permit a forecast of how much it will affect the gasoline market, but if the rate of increase in runs continues it is likely that resultant larger production of gasoline will have a deterring effect on prices. Better price level in wholesale gasoline market has been the one tangible improvement in the general oil industry so far in 1928. Refiners are getting from 1 to 1½ cents a gallon more than at the start of this year and the situation was shaping itself for some territorial advances in retail prices later on.

American Tobacco's Record Year.

The aggressive advertising policy of the American Tobacco Company in expanding old markets and making new ones for its products, particularly the "Lucky Strike" cigaret, is clearly reflected in the annual report for 1927, showing record net profit of $23,309,049. This is equivalent to $10.29 a share on the common stock and compares with $9.90 earned on the shares in 1926, the previous banner year. After payment of dividends of $8 a share on the common, there was carried to surplus $4,472,984 from the year's operations, making the total surplus $39,421,241 as of December 31, 1927. The company went into the new year in a strong cash and quick asset position. Tobacco stocks, leaf, manufactured and "in process," were carried at $85,820,329, as against $72,784,292 at the end of 1926. Despite this larger inventory item, cash decreased less than $2,000,000, standing at $14,759,972 as of December 31, last. A substantial increase in number of stockholders is understood to have taken place during the year, attesting the popularity and standing of the issue with the investment public. While no official figures have been made public, it is understood there are now more than 31,000 shareholders listed on the company's books.

Nickel Plate Prospects.

W. L. Ross, president of the New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad, does not expect the showing for March will be quite as good as in February when gross was $4,197,395 and surplus after charges, $215,506. "While our business is good in spots, it is spotted and not moving in the volume that it did several years ago. If we find it possible to equalize 1927 business and operating results, we should feel rather encouraged. If we handle business in gross volume to the same extent as we did in 1927, we would be fortunate."

Always one of the largest of the integrated domestic oil companies, Texas Corporation with the acquisition of California properties becomes fully established as one of the leading factors in the Pacific coast oil situation as well as Oriental and west coast of South America markets served therefrom. Exchange of stock was made on a two-for-one basis. Congoleum-Nairn.

Current strength in Congoleum is without explanation in trading circles other than that clique operations are behind the movement. Competition in the floor covering industry is apparently as keen as ever, and interests familiar with the business say there has been no change to warrant the stock activity. Overproduction and price cutting still prevail in the linoleum trade, leaving a scant margin of profit for producers. However, one of the biggest operators in the street is said to have been buying the stock recently. The upward spread since a week ago has been about 5 points, almost 20 per cent, based on market price of the shares.

J. Burton Ayres was elected a director, succeeding Hamilton Stewart, deceased. Other directors were re-elected.

Commenting on the listing, E. H. H. Simmons, president of the exchange said: "By listing the funding 4 per cent loan, the New York Stock Exchange will provide American institutional and private investors with a readier access to considerable amounts of the securities of a state whose credit record is unimpeachable. An extensive public market in securities of this character simultaneously in two great financial centers, will tend to stabilize values and will offer to industry and commerce a convenient means of settling trade balances."

Electric Bond and Share.

Electric Bond and Share Securities Corporation probably will issue additional stock soon, and stockholders will be given the privilege of subscribing, possibly at around $100 a share. To make the stock more attractive, consideration is being given to a change in the present dividend policy of paying only $1 a share annually. The most likely dividend change would be a continuance of the present cash rate and payment of an annual stock dividend, probably 1-25th of a share. This policy is now in force with two of the company's most important affiliated companies, American Power and Light and American Gas and Electric.

Rail Employment Decrease.

Retrenchments in the railway maintenance services in December, January and February reduced railway employment to the lowest level since the shop strike of 1922, Samuel O. Dunn, editor of Railway Age, told the Purdue University branch of the American Association of Civil Engineers. Railroad employes numbered 135,000 less in February than the average for February during the preceding five years, he said.

"The reduction in employes has been due partly to a decline in traffic," he said, "but in relatively larger measure to retrenchments in the maintenance of locomotives, cars, tracks and other railroad property."

From 1921 to 1926, he said, the railroads' net return increased because of augmented freight traffic and despite declining passenger traffic, reduced rates and advanced wages. A drop in freight revenue in 1927, however, resulted in the smallest return on investments in six years, with the exception of 1924. Retrenchments then were ordered to check the decline in net returns.

Brokers Ask Wider Margins.

Several of the large commission houses in Wall Street have increased their margin requirements during the past few days, following similar action by banks on brokers' collateral. One of the leading firms sent a letter to customers with the following schedule: On issues selling from 10 to 14⅞, six points; 15 to 24⅞, seven points; 25 to 29⅞, eight points; 30 to 34⅞, nine points, and 35 to 39⅞, ten points. Pullman Outlook-Surtax.

President Carey of the Pullman Company, at the annual meeting, stated today: "Our business is excellent for this season, which is usually a bad one, and while we will very probably show a deficit for the quarter after dividends, I have no doubt that earnings for the year will be more than sufficient to take care of the dividend." Mr. Carey said he expected profitable results to be obtained from the two car-wheel plants recently acquired. He indicated that Pullman would not as yet adopt roller bearings, stating that he had only "hope" of the surtax question being straightened out. He declared the belief that the modern steel car was as expensive to handle as a Pullman and that the correction of a surtax if it wants to be corrected should be done by the railroad. Surtax on Pullman tickets is 50 per cent of the Pullman company's charge, the excess going to the road over which the haul is made.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, April 18.—Corn and oats both jumped today to the highest price which the July and September deliveries have reached yet this season. Big buying of all grain developed, an official report from Iowa saying that the past week had been one of the most unfavorable in years for Iowa farm crops and that preparations for Iowa corn planting are at a standstill. Wheat advanced with corn and July wheat touching a new high price record for the season with reports continuing of dry windy weather in wheat territory southwest and west.

Advances here by wheat values today were in the face of decided setbacks at Liverpool. Authoritative advices were at hand, however, that European winter crops are showing more damage as they develop, and that winter kill appears to have been heavier than usual. This circumstance, together with prospects of continued unfavorable weather conditions for domestic wheat southwest, gave a material advantage at times to the buying side of the market here.

Corn and oats derived strength today from reports that corn ground preparation is making only slow progress on account of bad weather conditions. Predictions of lower temperatures were also construed as likely to have an adverse effect on oats growth, and there was talk that a large acreage of oats frozen out of late would be abandoned, as it is too late to re-seed oats.

LONE STAR GAS SLIPS OFF

Active demand for Standard Sanitary Manufacturing and a slight sagging tendency in Lone Star featured the early dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today.

Buying of Standard Sanitary did not have immediate reflection in a rapid upward movement, but the demand for the issue was sufficient to lift the price a large fraction above yesterday's low figure. Approach of the dividend meeting has stimulated interest in the shares in view of the fact that the street expects the directors to place the issue on a $2 annual basis which would be equivalent to $6 on the old shares which were split three-for-one and which received dividends at the rate of $5 a year. A $2 annual rate on the stock would mean an attractive dividend return, better than 5 per cent, a yield well above the average for companies of similar standing whose shares are listed on the New York exchange.

The moderate recession in Lone Star was attributed to the backdown of the oil stocks in New York where prices were from 1 to 3 and 4 points under the peaks reached on the spurt at the beginning of the week.

STEEL OUTPUT HOLDS OWN

NEW YORK, April 18.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say:

A sustained rate of steel production, following a record quarter is a market feature, but more impressive still is a further increase in operations at Chicago. With specifications for finished steel running ahead of shipments, deliveries from Chicago mills are extending and ingot output has passed 95 per cent of capacity, with the blowing in of another steel works blast furnace an early possibility. The average rate of plant operations in the remainder of the country is not that high, but it is holding its own. However, in contrast with the situation at Chicago, shipments are heavier than bookings, and mill backlogs are being reduced.

Automobile output, although large, is no longer gaining. Makers of motor car parts have reduced their purchases. On the other hand the Ford Motor Company is steadily placing larger steel orders. Some mills serving the motor car industry are fully booked until late in May.

Agricultural implement plants are planning a reduction in output.

Railroad purchases of rails have been largely completed, but a secondary buying movement of fair proportions is expected in May or June.

Construction activity is still unabated.

Mill prices as a whole still await a real test.

Tin plate specifications for June shipment are large.

Makers of wire nails are finding it difficult to book second quarter business at 2.65 per keg, Pittsburgh or Cleveland.

Both of the Iron Age composite prices remain at last week's levels, that for pig iron at $17.67 a gross ton and that for finished steel at 2.362c. a pound. Finished steel is close to its position of one year ago, but pig iron is down more than $1.50 a ton.

"Insurance is a secondary reserve.
"You win either way. If you live as long as the company expects, you're glad to pay the premium—if you die, the company pays. You can't lose."

TODAY WHILE GUSTAVE BROWN WAS TRYING TO REMEMBER DETAILS HE FORGOT YESTERDAY, THE MAN WHO CAME TO NEW BABYLON TO START A BRANCH OFFICE OF THE FORGET-ME-NOT MEMORY REJUVENATOR, WAS REMINDED OF A ROMANTIC ADVENTURE THAT OCCURRED WHEN HE GOT OFF THE TRAIN.

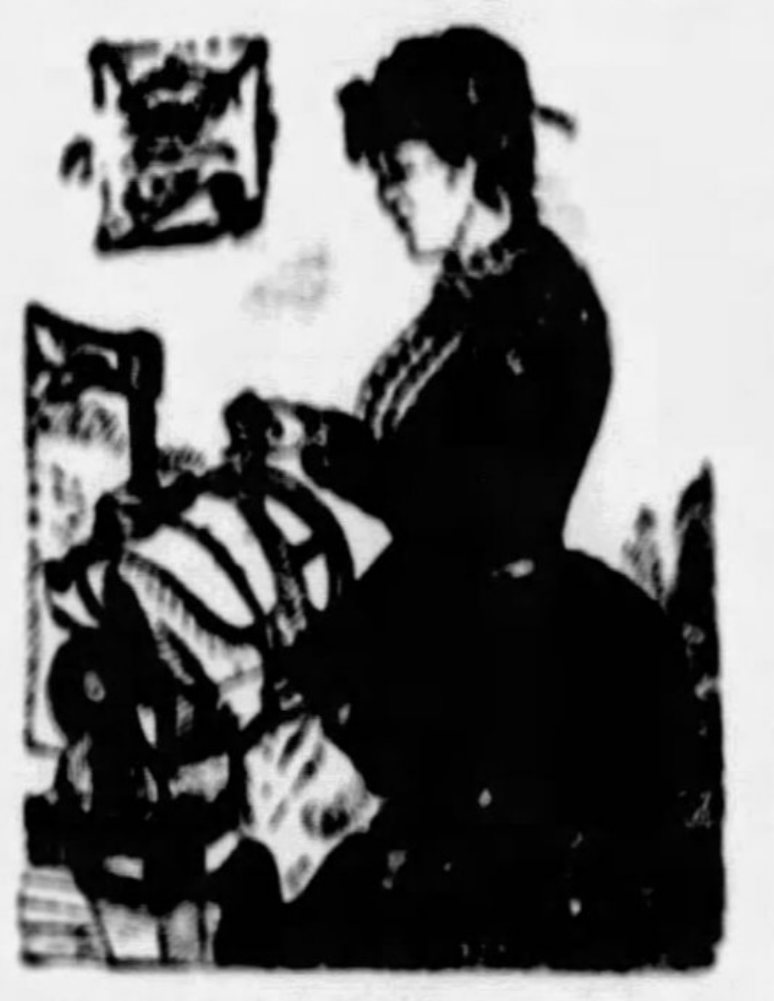
Don't Feel That It's Too Much Bother for Congressman Frisby!

He's Glad to Give Free Legal Advice — Wants to Be Known as Humanity's "Big Brother."



One of the girls in our free legal advice bureau using our new automatic ironer, which irons out each letter, received, so it can be handed, fresh and clean, to Mr. Frisby.

Question—I absent-mindedly write letters to myself, or go to a telephone and get my own number. Then I talk to myself. On crowded street cars I get up and give myself a seat. Is this legal?

Seven Toed Pete.

Answer—We are glad you asked that question. This is only a suggestion that may not be worth the effort, but you can try it. Go get out an injunction against yourself. In the meantime cut out starchy foods. Avoid sugars and sclerenchyma tissues, coal tar products, gladiolas, hollyhocks, sweet peas and candytuft. Better still, give yourself to science.

BUGS BAER Says

ENGLAND has finally consented to lift the amusement tax off crude rubber. This simplifies the compulsory budget for folks who trundle around on four balloon vulcanizing jobs.

Good tires are the first law of Sunday driving. England controls the entire rubber market, with the exception of collars.

ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER.

Now rubber will drop to fifteen cents a pound and we can all afford new lead pencils.

Locomotion didn't mean much in the old days. You could slap four shoes on the old gray mule and he would knock off fifty thousand miles in easy installments.

There were no hurry calls for mechanics, repair trucks or insurance adjusters. Now, touring consists of starting out frontward and coming home backward on the end of a sympathetic derrick.

Rubber has increased in importance. You must have tires for the car, tires for the baby carriage, tires for the carpet sweeper, tires for the English tea table, tires for the kids' scooters, tires for grandpop's wheel chair, tires for airplanes, velocipedes and rubber heels for the shoes.

Even when they trundle you to the operating room you are touring on four rubber casters. So what we will save on the price of tires we will be able to expend for bigger and better blow-out patches.

Police Can Be Speedy; Other Calls Are Coming

The city payroll can be mustered when the cause justifies it. Lethargic police can be vivified and transformed from statues into record-breaking sprinters. They can be electrified and changed from static to dynamic—by a mere word. They can rush to obey orders with an alacrity that is remarkable—when they hear the right word.

They heard it yesterday and the day before. The zero hour appointed was last night and the rendezvous of rally was—no, not any scene of vice and crime—at least, we hope not. The point of assemblage was Duquesne Garden. The object was to promote the campaign of Mayor Kline and George Flinn as delegates to a national political convention and the furtherance of the candidacies of "organization" men seeking office. Payrollers, city and county, received their orders and obeyed the call, among them city police.

There have been repeated calls for city police activity and those who have called doubtless will be glad to learn, through the demonstration last night, that our guardians are not so crippled that they cannot get to some place in a hurry. There will be other calls made on them. One will be made by thousands of East End persons who are not mayors or candidates but just law-abiding and law-loving and vice-hating citizens. It will be made in the Sixth United Presbyterian Church, Highland avenue, Sunday night. There will be a similar call from united congregations of the North Side. Will the police respond as promptly to the call to clean up vice in Pittsburgh—which is their duty—as they did last night to help a few political bosses—which is distinctly not their duty?

The people will soon have this question answered.

Do Not Forget Bonds In Primary Next Week

Separate statements issued by Councilmen P. J. McArdle and W. Y. English call attention to the city bond issue, with consent of the people, which comes up next Tuesday, April 24, date of the spring primary.

Councilman McArdle says this is a people's bond issue not only in the sense of affecting their credit but in its general effect upon all the people as a whole.

Councilman English says the improvements the bonds will provide in the way of street and sewer betterments, which are "sorely needed," will reach every ward in the city.

It is important that citizens be deeply interested in the kind of men they nominate for offices, but it is even more important that they be interested in their homes. Good streets and sewers are necessary externals of a complete home.

So, in your zeal to see that good men are nominated for office next Tuesday, do not forget your home. When you give that sacred place consideration, it always is first with you—or should be. Do not through enthusiasm over the political side of the primary, forget about the bonds—the people's bonds—and thereby endanger needed improvements to the possibility of defeat.

Vote both for your candidates and for the bonds. If anything is overlooked, do not let it be the bond issue.

Gift of Medical Clinic Worthy of High Praise

The gift of $750,000 to the University of Pittsburgh for a free medical clinic and dispensary by Maurice and Leon Falk is an action so praiseworthy that expression of commendation seems scant reward to extend to the donors. Doubtless they expect nothing of that kind, except the satisfaction of knowing their kindly deed will provide aid for the ill and suffering.

This gift will make possible the operation within 18 months of a modern clinic equipped to care for 750 cases daily. It will be part of the University Medical Center, of which one unit, the Children's Hospital, already is engaged in mercy service. It will include a lecture hall in which free health talks will be given to the public—this feature also to be free.

Maurice and Leon Falk, business men, are of the type whose success evidently has not made their larger views of life material. They deserve the sincere thanks of this community.

What's Your Ideal?

Some serious-minded people were amazed and a little scandalized at the reception given to the screen stars, Adolphe Menjou and his fiancee, Kathryn Carver, on their arrival in Paris.

French stenographers quit work to view them. The station platform was crowded. There are only two Americans that ever received a more resounding greeting in Paris; Woodrow Wilson when he came over to help form the League of Nations, and Col. Lindbergh when he landed among the torch flares of Le Bourget.

Is it so unreasonable?

After all, whom do we poor human beings admire but those who represent our personal ideals?

Menjou and Kathryn Carver, to the screen fans, are charming, well-dressed, wealthy and beautiful idlers, free from the cares and trouble of daily life. Nightly before our very eyes they roll around the landscape in limousines.

Liveried flunkies open for them the doors of palaces. They sleep on canopied beds, awake to perfumed baths and swing through the day through a round of splendor that King Solomon and Queen Sheba never knew.

What poor toiler but dreams of these things?

What could he find to admire in an American Senator arriving in Paris, or a bloated, purse-proud financial magnate?

You can't beat—you can't equal—the appeal of beauty, and youth and riches.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

The Story of a Telescope

THE United States has for many years led all the world in the size and importance of its astronomical instrument equipments, but until the present year we have not been able to produce in this country optical glass on a scale large enough for use in making telescopes of the first magnitude. Now, however, there is in existence, made by the United States Bureau of Standards in Washington, a disk of such glass seventy inches in diameter, from which the mirror of a great new telescope for the Wesleyan University of Ohio will be constructed.

The story of the making of this piece of glass, as recorded in the Technical Bulletin of the Bureau of Standards, is singularly interesting because of the light which it gives on the extreme delicacy of manipulation required for the manufacture of the raw materials out of which the finest instruments of modern science are produced.

A special composition of materials is required to make this kind of glass, called "borosilicate crown." A thousand pounds of fragments of this glass were melted up together with 4,600 pounds of sand and chemicals, in a huge pot in a gas-fired furnace. When the melted mass was poured into a mold in May, 1927, its temperature was 1,350 degrees Centigrade (about 2,500 degrees Fahrenheit). During one week the glass was allowed to cool slowly and regularly until the temperature had sunk to 600 degrees Centigrade.

It was held at this point for four days in order to allow the temperature of the glass and the furnace to become uniform throughout. This was to prevent the glass from cracking in consequence of the internal stresses induced by cooling. From May 18 the glass was again allowed to cool at the slow rate of 2½ degrees Centigrade per day, until it had sunk to 460 degrees. At that temperature the process of annealing was effected, taking six weeks' time, during which no variation of temperature exceeding one degree was allowed to occur.

On August 30, 1927, the final cooling was started, and it was continued until January 16, this year, when the great disk, still in its mold, had acquired the temperature of the room in which it was contained.

The problem that thrilled the workers now was, had the long process been a success in producing a perfect disk, 70 inches across, 11 inches thick, and weighing 3,500 pounds? Success demanded uniform density and structure throughout the whole mass. On January 21 they at last opened the mold, and found their hopes realized. The glass showed the requisite uniformity, though there were a few specks and striae, which will not affect its value for the purpose intended. Many of the best telescopic lenses and mirrors have such slight imperfections, which can be disregarded.

Two hundred and fifty-nine days elapsed between the pouring of the molten mass into the mold and its extraction in the form of a great, translucent disk. The next step will be the grinding, figuring, polishing, etc., of the face of the disk, in order to transform it into a giant concave mirror of parabolic shape.

Remark that all this labor, care and expense was gone through to insure the internal perfection of a disk of glass which is not to be used for looking through, since it is not to be formed into a lens but into a mirror. The whole object was to make sure that the reflections of light from the mirror surface, which have to be perfectly converged at a common focus, shall not be distorted by slight changes in the shape of that surface produced by stresses inside the glass due to alterations of temperature and similar causes. Like a human being who is required to do critical work, a great telescopic mirror must be always in the best condition internally as well as externally.

When the telescope is finished it will be placed in the observatory at Wesleyan University, founded by the bounty of one of the university's professors for fifty years, Hiram Mills Perkins, who, unlike most professors, acquired a fortune of a quarter of a million dollars.

MR. EMPLOYER, a little praise given the person who does his work well would be a good investment for you.

It might encourage your employees to do still better.

But aside from this economic standpoint, it is better to commend those who deserve it, by helping you make a good showing in business, than it is to ignore their help.

You enjoy hearing about your successes from your business friends.

It pleases you to receive a compliment—why not pass one along?

You pay your employes what you think they are worth.

You feel that it is up to them to give you their best efforts.

And this is true.

But a favorable word from you means much to the right kind of an employe, and you should not have any other kind.

Every working man likes to please his employer.

The mere conviction that he would be discharged if he did not give satisfaction is not much comfort.

As an employer help your employees by a kind word now and then, for it means more from you than from others.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

Request

LITTLE my Love and I ask of Earth's store,
Only a house for two,
Robins that carol around the door,
Roses for winds to woo.

Only the dreams love has cherished long,
Joy of a daily task,
Laughter and starlight and artless song,
Simple, the things we ask.

Yet, should the Hand that does all things well
Blossom and song deny,
Life will be bliss, while we two may dwell
Together, my Love and I.

Tales that are Told

Thump!

A MAN went to a specialist about a pain he kept having, and was told to be very careful, as he might drop dead at any moment.

Having consulted another specialist, just to make sure, the man put his affairs in order and communicated with all his relatives.

One of these told him not to be a fool and to take no notice of those specialist fellows, but to go to a certain old family doctor whom she recommended.

Diffidently enough, and just as a drowning man will grasp at a straw, the invalid did so. The doctor, a hearty old chap with a big local reputation, sounded the man all over, prodding him violently with a thick forefinger.

When he had finished he chuckled loudly and declared there was no reason in the world why the man should not live to be a hundred. So saying, he gave him such a mighty thump on the back that he dropped dead.

Her Reason

A TREMBLING class faced the officious-looking school inspector as he rapped out questions with the rapidity of a machine-gun.

But the girls were not to be caught napping. They had been warned of the inspector's intended visit and had prepared themselves accordingly.

Suddenly he changed his tactics and asked a little girl whether she would prefer a sixth or a seventh of an orange.

"A seventh," she declared.

"Idiot!" growled the inspector. "Don't you know that—"

"Yes," interrupted the child. "But I don't like oranges."

His Masterpiece

ON HIS way to the station one morning Jenkins met the man who lived in the next house but one to him.

"I say," he said, "I don't like our new neighbor. He must be the stingiest man in the world. The other day I heard him telling his little boy to take longer steps so as to save shoe leather."

His friend laughed.

"That's nothing. My wife saw him put a fly under the lid of the sugar-bowl before he went out so that he could tell whether his maid had stolen a lump while he was away!"

One Who Didn't

A FARMER took his wife to a concert, and after listening with apparent joy the pair suddenly became interested in one of the choruses: "All we, like sheep, have gone astray."

First a sharp soprano voice exclaimed: "All we, like sheep;" next a deep voice uttered in a most earnest tone: "All we, like sheep." Then all the singers at once asserted: "All we, like sheep."

"Well, I don't!" exclaimed the farmer to his wife. "I like beef and bacon, but I can't bear mutton."

What She Wanted

"BARBARA!" called the child's mother: and as her daughter did not immediately appear on scene, called again: "Barbara!"

The little girl came running in, and was sent off to the butcher's for the dinner.

"Well, little one," beamed the man in the blue coat, "what do you want today?"

"A—er—a sheep's head," she stuttered uncertainly. "And mother says will you cut it off as near the tail as possible?"

Seadromes

OUR grandchildren, should they design to read the annals of our times, may marvel at the queer pictures of floating airdromes with which it is proposed to dot the Atlantic as aids to aviation.

They may wonder why it was ever thought necessary to break journeys in air over the oceans. For by their day it may be as simple a matter to fly from Paris to New York betwixt dawn and dark as it now is to take a ride in Schenley Park.

Man's foresight in these mechanical matters is short at best. Ere the wildest dream ends, its fulfilment is often begun.

Yet in the light of present knowledge, seadromes seem preferable to tragedies in trans-ocean flight.

New York Day by Day

by
O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 18.—Where are the Adam's apples of yesteryear? One out of the proverbial six used to be distinguished by this Lincolnian symbol. Today it seems you cannot scare up a half dozen on the whole of Manhattan Island. Their disappearance is likely responsible for the low collar.

There is something typically American about the Adam's apple. It smacks of the plow, the spring-seated farm wagon and furrowed fields and has the fascination of a loose tooth. Some had an adagio movement—slow, leisurely and rather graceful.

Others had a quick bobbiness like a cork in the choppy waves. In a way the Adam's apple was a barometer of human emotions. A mecurial quickness presaged joy, grief, love and hate. And a slowly rising and falling movement indicated a mental calm.

There was scarcely a stage comedian without an Adam's apple. It somehow gave striking emphasis to comedy—like baggy pantaloons or splay feet. The older generation of financiers—like the elder Rockefeller, for instance—almost invariably had 'em.

Now the financier has a plump neck with a billow or so fluting over the back of his collar. At the moment I can recall only one industrial giant with the rather primitive protuberance and he is Henry Ford. I just telephoned one academic theorist about the phenomenon.

He advanced a plausible idea. He said it had been observed most tobacco chewers had Adam's apples and this may have been caused by the constant drain of saliva drying up certain glands. With the big decrease in tobacco chewing, necks may have bloomed again.

In wandering into scientific fields, I seem to have become hopelessly balled up. I might easily have asked: What has become of the Adam's apple?—and let it go at that. But as you grow older you grow garrulous. And garrulities fill space.

One of the fine old houses in the Fashionable Fifties bears a brass sign at its door reading: "The House of Facial Care." Some faces hereabouts must be a care, too.

An amateur magician has been performing a trick at private parties that has added more graying hairs to this tottering observer. He will place a deck of cards on the table and leave the room. You select any card you desire and hold it so no one else in the room or the magician himself can see it. Then he asks you to name any friend that comes into your mind who may be reached by telephone. You call him yourself and ask what card you hold in your hand. If he names, say the eight of clubs, that will be the card you are holding. I have seen it click six times out of six. A few more times and I'll be off for a little saintarium spool playing.

In the window of a house bearing a sign, "Boarders," on upper Avenue A is a card reading: "Sheets changed Wednesday and Saturday. Parlor sitting up to 10 p. m."

At a private dinner to a retiring banker each guest was given a cigar packed in an individual sterling silver box with the guest's name engraved thereon. Furthermore each name was in gilt on the cigar band. An enterprising secretary had learned the individual taste for mildness and strength and catered to it for each guest. An emissary was sent to Havana to see that the commission was faithfully carried out and the cigar complete with the case cost more than $25 each. An added touch was the mold of the face of each guest on his ice cream.

Rich Men's Sons

By DR. FRANK CRANE

McClure's Magazine recently carried an interesting article about the activities of rich men's sons.

As far as we can see they are much like anybody else's sons.

We commonly think of the sons of rich men as sitting around on the hotel porch at Palm Beach in white flannels, or yachting on the South Seas or some sort of thing like that. But probably there are as many idle sons of poor men.

Of course poor men's sons have to work sometimes in order to eat, but necessity is not the only thing that makes men work.

There is boredom. Ennui has considerable punch in making men get up and hustle.

The article in question says that two dozen young men, all sons of wealthy men, are building air routes, manufacturing and piloting planes, backing inventors and subsidizing aerial schools, and all without the hope of financial return for years to come.

Earl Reeves, the author of the article in question, mentions Sherman Fairchild, who inherited $40,000,000. In his early twenties he invented a camera now in universal use. He is now manufacturing planes and projecting aerial commutation lines from New York to open in the spring.

Harold F. Pitcairn, heir to some $20,000,000 plate glass fortune, backs the New York-Atlanta air mail route and is a pilot himself, as well as operating two flying fields and an aerial school at Philadelphia.

Edsel Ford, the son of a man considered by some to be the richest man in the world, might loaf and puff cigarets for a million years or so if he lived that long. He is not going to live that long and gets his fun out of building airplanes and transporting mail and express between Detroit and Chicago, Cleveland and Buffalo.

Charles L. Lawrence, who designed the "Whirlwind" engine which took Lindbergh, Byrd and Chamberlin across the Atlantic, is an engineering executive of the Wright company, although his family fortune would have served him for life.

J. R. Cunningham is the son of a Portland millionaire, but he works as a mail pilot on the coast for a living, and is flying around in order to learn about commercial aviation.

Harry F. Guggenheim, son of the copper magnate, who was a war pilot, now is head of the $2,500,000 fund for the promotion of aeronautics, sponsor of Lindbergh's all-American tour.

Aviation seems to offer just about enough adventure and novelty to interest rich young men.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD.

A GROUP of travelers in Northern Ireland, including two Chicago girls, escaped death in a landslide Saturday. You don't have to travel expensively to do that. There was a terrific landslide in Chicago Tuesday, a week ago, and all the women and children escaped. It's a gallant city.

Mrs. Minnie Goranson killed her police sergeant husband there and she is now declared eligible to receive a widow's pension.

You needn't talk about Chicago. It's the one spot where chivalry is making a last stand.

Peggy Watson is merely a Mrs. in Paris, but in New York she is Duchess. Anyway, being a duchess in Paris isn't half the fun of being a duchess in New York. On several previous occasions Peggy became engaged and lost her man each time to one of her friends. Then she took a correspondence course.

While American women are going to Paris to get unmarried, the women on the other side might start the fashion of coming to America to get married. We have some perfectly lovely Gretna Greens, and the judges will get up at any hour of the night to help a girl outdistance conscientious objectors. This is the country for women. What on earth they go "over there" for, I can't figure. And as for the Peggys — America simply dumps whole jewelry stores into their laps.

The first question of Baron Von Huenefeld's mother, when she heard he had landed on a frozen island far from anywhere, was: "Can he get milk and eggs?"

God bless these mothers! They get up in the middle of night when their boys are babies to heat the milk. They stand over a moulding board for hours making animal cookies, and after school their boy and the other boys come in and empty the jar. They follow them later with their prayers and hopes and good wishes.

It's the kind of fuel furnished by the Baron's mother, and Col. Lindbergh's mother, that carries airplanes across the Atlantic Ocean.

After courting a girl for years and asking her 20 times 20 times to marry him, being refused firmly each time, Gordon Ramsay got a marriage license, steered the girl into a church and they were wed. Now he wonders why he didn't think of that a long time ago.

This self-reliance and boasted independence of women is mostly hokum. A strong he-man comes along and they look cross-eyed, and get limp, and affirmative.
